Sherman Heads To Capital

Considered as Likely Choice to Succeed Admiral Louis Denfeld

By Elton C. Fay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—(P)—Vice Admiral Forrest P. Sherman headed today for Washington, bolstering speculation that he will be picked to succeed Adm. Louis Denfeld as chief of Naval operations.

The commander of the Sixth Task Force in the Mediterranean has been mentioned prominently for the job from which Denfeld was ousted. He has stayed on the sidelines in the armed services scrap which brought Denfeld's removal.

Sherman left his fleet at Beirut, Lebanon, and boarded a Pan-American airliner for the flight to this country. Officials at London headquarters of U. S. naval forces in the eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean said he had been ordered to return to the capital.

An announcement on Denfeld's successor as well as a decision on whether Denfeld will retire or accept a lesser assignment is expected soon.

Two Possible Developments

The two developments could happen today.

Secretary of the Navy Mathews has indicated that he would submit his nomination for a new chief of naval operations to President Truman and Secretary of Defense Johnson at the earliest possible moment. Johnson was out of the city over the weekend while Mathews mulled over the problem.

The only hint of what had been offered Denfeld in a meeting between the admiral and secretary on Friday was contained in Mathews' comment to reporters that the new assignment would "not mean any demotion in rank for Admiral Denfeld." Beyond that, the secretary said nothing about the proposed job.

If Sherman is picked for the post of chief of naval operations, it would mean that he would be jumped over the heads of nine vice admirals senior to him.

But Sherman had a qualification not possessed by any but one of the nine—he is an air officer. With present day emphasis on naval carrier task forces as the keystone of the fleet, this was important. The only other officer senior to Sherman who is a naval aviator is four-star admiral Arthur W. Radford, commander of the Pacific fleet. And Radford was like Denfeld strongly critical of Pentagon policy and the present operation of the service unification program.

E. R. Stettinius, Jr. Dies at His Sister's Home

Head of Lend-Lease During War And Formerly Was Secretary of State

GREENWICH, Conn., Oct. 31—(P)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., wartime head of Lend-Lease and U. S. Secretary of State when the United Nations came into being, died today at the age of 49.

The white-haired, handsome Stettinius, who at 37 became board chairman of U. S. Steel corporation, was his country's first U. N. delegate. He was named rector of the University of Virginia after leaving the U. N. post in 1946.

Death came at 7:30 a. m. (EST) at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Trippe here. Mrs. Trippe is Stettinius' sister. Her husband is head of Pan-American World Airways.

A rich man's son, Stettinius went into government service and shortly became administrator of the $60,000,000 Lend-Lease program that played a major part in the final defeat of Nazi Germany.

The former cabinet member's secretary said members of the household found Stettinius unconscious in bed this morning. He died soon after a physician arrived at the house.

Stettinius had suffered from a heart condition since last spring, his secretary said, and had been convalescing here.

His wife and her mother, Mrs. W. J. Wallace, were with him when he died.

Rev. D. Warren Neal led the singing.

Guests introduced by George Lockett were G. W. Chambers, guest of Mr. Croxton, Ira Schrader, Kansas City and John F. Zander, secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, guests of Z. Lyle Brown, Paul Hausam, and Bob Hausam guests of Fred Brink, Eddy Deuel, guest of Ernest Thompson, Bob Brokaw, and Abe Silverman, guests of Jack Cunningham, A. T. Henry guest of Guy Peabody and Rotarians: Larry Griffith, Port Alleghany, Pa., Blan Brydon, of Jefferson City.

Z. Lyle Brown was appointed coordinator of Pettis county by George W. Deimer, president of the Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg.

The program chairman, Z. Lyle Brown, introduced John F. Zander, who presented the guest speaker.

Otis W. Wiley, chairman of the Club Extension, announced that Saturday the committee delivered five gifts to the following boys: Leonard Ives, Dean Frame, Dean Yancey, Kenneth Dohrman and Bobby Eickholz. The Rotary club committee is composed of Fred Koenig, Guy Peabody, Roy L. Coplen as chairman.

Those visiting neighboring clubs the past week were W. D. Smith, Princeton, Milton Hinlein, Philadelphia, Pa., Nolan Bricken, Lexington, Charles Hofheins, Marshall and Warrensburg.

Second Hiss Trial

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(P)—Federal Judge William Bondy today set Nov. 17 for the start of the second perjury trial of Alger Hiss, one-time high state department official.

Hiss' first trial ended in a hung jury last July.

Last Survivor of Town That Was Accursed is Dead

By Bem Price

OLIVER, Ga., Oct. 31—(P)—The lone survivor of Jacksonboro—the accursed town that was—is dead.

Out of that once damned, now desolate region on Beaver Creek came word today that Richard Bryant, 105-year-old ex-Negro slave, had died Friday night.

He was the only man alive who saw the terrible curse of a little hunchbacked itinerant minister, Lorenzo Dow, come true.

He saw the once bustling town disappear, house by house, store by store until but one house remained—the house specifically spared by Dow.

When Bryant was just three years old, he saw the white residents give up in despair at the freaks of fire, water and wind and move lock, stock and barrel five miles away to found another town, Sylvania.

It was in 1794 that Jacksonboro half way between Augusta and Savannah, was founded. It flourished as a coach stop and country seat.

Jacksonboro was a rough, tough town near the hill country in a rough, tough time.

Denied Right to Preach

For 36 years the town went its boisterous way. Then in 1830 Dow drifted down and called upon its citizens to repant. People laughed. They pealed him with eggs. And they would not let him preach.

The tormented little minister with the burning eyes turned this way and that until a powerful man, Seaborn Goodall, gave him sanctuary in his home.

When the purposeful Dow strode to meet his tormentors again the following day, a mob drove him to the rustic bridge and bade him never return.

Scornfully Dow paused on the span, removed his shoes and shook the dust of Jacksonboro from his feet.

He turned and swore that God would bring swift vengeance, the same that overtook Sodom and Gomorrah. The townsfolk laughed again.

But then, unaccountably, fires broke out, windstorms tore off roofs, the placid creek through the middle of the town became wild and unruly, sweeping away homes in flash floods.

The remaining settlers finally gave up and moved their county seat to Sylvania. Time removed all traces of the town but the Goodall place which still stands.

Here Bryant was born into slavery. He was a young man when Sherman marched through, burning all houses along his route—but the Goodall place.

The night old "Uncle" Richard died, so they say, by the light of a flickering kerosene lamp, there was an awful rustling in the trees and an old hound howled.

They pealed him with

Vandalism to Bring Trouble

Tonight is Hallowe'en, devoted to merry-making and divination and the biggest attraction set aside in Sedalia is a masquerade parade downtown which begins at 6:30 o'clock. It forms at Third and Osage and starts at 7 p. m. moves on Osage to Main thence to Ohio and on to Ninth street and the high school. Virgil Herick is parade marshal.

According to police records over Saturday night and Sunday, outside of a few garbage pails, flower pots, etc., missing, vandalism was very light. The worst can be expected tonight and the police are preparing for it. Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors said the department would use 40 extra auxiliary policemen and 10 cars to circulate around the city in search for vandals.

Sunday night a shot went through a front living room window at the Charles D. Parrish home, 408 West Fourth street. It was either from a BB gun, or slingshot. Such damaging things as this will likely bring trouble to any who might continue such actions.

Big Ovation Given Murray

Promises Pro-Communists be Ousted by CIO

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31—(P)—CIO President Philip Murray touched off a rousing demonstration at the opening session of the 11th convention today when he promised to "cleanse" the organization of pro-Communists.

After referring to abuse directed at him by the Moscow radio, Murray, in his keynote address, said that at meetings of his own CIO executive board:

"I did not know whether I was talking to a fink (strikebreaker), a commie, or an FBI man."

"If we are going to cleanse this movement, which by the way, we are going to do at this convention—" Murray started to say when the more than 600 delegates broke into noisy cheers.

Murray was unable to finish his sentence.

At least three, and possibly a dozen unions under so-called left-wing leadership are threatened with ouster from the CIO.

Death Halts Wedding Plans

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31—(P)—Death has halted the wedding plans of Actress June Haver and her dentist fiance, Dr. John Duisik.

His three sons, Edward R., Wallace and Joseph, were immediately notified of their father's death as well as his other sister, Mrs. John R. Marsh.

A secretary, L. F. Wallace, said funeral plans probably would not be completed until late today.

Stettinius went to the Yalta conference with Roosevelt, played a leading role in the San Francisco conference which actually brought the U. N. into being, and headed the U. S. delegation to the Chepultepec conference in Mexico, where a western hemisphere defense system was created.

He had met Miss Haver at 20th-Century Fox when she first came there several years ago as an up and coming actress. He was supervising dentist of the studio.

They fell in love and the movie colony expected a marriage. But then there was a lover's quarrel a few years ago. June married Musician Jimmie Zito with whom she had been associated in a dance band before she came to Hollywood.

Then there was a lover's quarrel a few years ago. June married Musician Jimmie Zito with whom she had been associated in a dance band before she came to Hollywood.

The marriage didn't last and they were divorced.

She and the handsome dentist started going together soon and a wedding was planned.

The funeral mass will be sung Wednesday at St. Paul the Apostle Roman Catholic church. Then his body will be taken to his native Rock Springs, Wyo., for burial.

All are asked to wear costumes, as awards will be given for the best.

Brings on Rush For Anti-Freeze

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31—(P)—The radiator anti-freeze business was booming today in Missouri.

A cold wave that slipped in over the week-end sent temperature readings down well below the freezing mark over most of the state. The Southeast portion escaped, but the weatherman said they would get lows of 25 to 30 by Tuesday morning.

As usual Tarkio had the state's lowest, a cool 18. Not far behind were Macon with 20; Kirkville with 21; Marshall with 22; Chillicothe and Buckner with 23 and Columbia and New Florence with 24.

There was a good coating of ice in the Macon area. The temperature there rose slowly, going up to 22 by 7 a. m.

Other readings included: Clinton, Joplin, Springfield and Rolla 26; Kansas City 27; West Plains and St. Louis 31 and Advance 33.

The forecast indicates it won't be so cold tonight in the northwest, with lows of 30 to 35. Tuesday's high is expected to be around the 60 mark.

When he uttereth his voice, there is a multitude of waters in the heavens and he causeth the vapors to ascend from the ends of the earth; he maketh lightnings with rain and bringeth forth the wind out of his treasures. — Jeremiah 10:13.

Gave Bullets Instead of Love

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31—(P)—He said he wanted some loving. I told him 'All right, I'll give you some loving.' And I pulled out the gun and shot him."

On the basis of that signed statement to police, blonde Patsy Rogers, 25-year-old switchboard operator, today is booked on suspicion of murder in the Saturday slaying of Furrier Harry Lapides, 71.

Lapides' body, five bullets through the heart, was found yesterday under a pile of fur coats in his Hollywood store. Lapides came here two years ago from South Bend, Ind., where he had been in the fur business 30 years.

Miss Rogers said she had known Lapides about 18 months and that he had been trying to sell her a fur coat. She was arrested about midnight Saturday in a downtown parking lot on suspicion of drunkenness. She broke away from officers at Central police station, but was downed by a detective's flying tackle. Her purse fell open and out rolled an automatic.

Detective C. C. Forbes quoted her thusly:

"I guess I just blew my top. When I get mad I do a lot of things."

"He was standing across the table. He wanted me to love him. 'He looked kind of funny when I shot him.'

"He asked me why I did it and then he flopped into a chair. I didn't know he was dead. I sat down and smoked a cigarette."

Lapides' body was discovered when his niece and her husband, Lapides' wife had become alarmed when her husband failed to return home at the usual time.

Miss Rogers' statement related that she took a fur coat, Lapides' wallet, his diamond ring and his automobile. The automobile was found on the parking lot where she was arrested.

The former Senator then turned to those present and said chivalrously: "The vice president's body—shall we say—to the senator from Missouri."

Mrs. Hadley, with eyes sparkling, said simply: "The Vice President and I are going to be married today and then I'll be a widow."

The plans will be announced later."

Friends then rushed up to congratulate the couple, while photographers' bulbs flashed.

"I certainly deserve to be congratulated," Barkley commented.

"I regard myself as greatly honored by the announcement Mrs. Hadley has just made."

About forty persons, who had gathered on the lawn outside, were admitted to the apartment to congratulate the couple, who seemed as shy and gay as a couple of youngsters who had just been told their folks there was going to be a wedding.

Officers in Toledo, notified by authorities here, rushed to the big, rambling Harding home. They found Mrs. Mildred Harding, 46, dead in her bedroom.

Nearby was her mother, Mrs. Maude Thompson, critically injured.

Mrs. Thompson died at 5 a. m. in a Toledo hospital.

When Harding arrived at Grosse Pointe

Warehouse Worker Gets Tax

Lien Slapped on His Salary

—Mistakenly

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Last week this column told how various big-shot tax-evaders managed to delay or squirm out of criminal tax fraud prosecution, sometimes because of leniency on the part of politically minded or easy-going U. S. attorneys.

It was pointed out that U. S. attorneys are appointed on the recommendation of senators or congressmen, and sometimes appear to work more for the senators than for the justice department.

In contrast to the smooth sailing enjoyed by some big-shot tax-evaders, here is what happened recently to a little fellow who got into a misunderstanding over his taxes. This taxpayer, Francis J. Massey of 220 Second street, Washington, a displaced government war worker, found a job after the war as a warehouse worker for Lansburgh and Brothers, a Washington department store.

In 1948 treasury agents checked Mr. Massey's tax returns for the war years and found proper returns had been filed and taxes paid. Then suddenly it was discovered that a Frank J. Massey had received $150 in dividends from stock owned in the Washington Gas Light Co., and the treasury promptly assessed Francis J. Massey additional taxes.

Tax Lien on $28 Salary

Actually, Francis J. Massey never owned the stock and never received any dividends. It belonged to his father, now deceased. Edward T. Stafford, secretary of the Washington Gas Light Co., certified that Francis J. Massey never owned the stock and never received the dividends owed to his father, but this made no difference to the U. S. treasury.

It demanded that he pay just the same. Mr. Massey's salary was only $28 a week, and he had a wife and two small children to support. But, under protest, he paid in small dribs of $2 a week up to a total of $18.92. This, however, wasn't fast enough for the treasury and it slapped a tax lien on his salary for the remaining $15.59.

This got him into trouble with his employer who did not want to be suspected of harboring a tax dodger and he was fired.

Thus, unable to get a recommendation from his last employer — except with a tax-dodging record — Massey was unable to find a full-time employment. His youngest child became ill, the family doctor had not been paid for past services and would not come when urgently needed. The child died and was buried in potter's field at government expense.

This burial expense probably about equaled the improper tax assessment of $34.51 wrung from Mr. Massey. So, in the end, the treasury department gained nothing.

Finally the office of deputy collector J. Ellis Bowen apologized for the mistake, which they said was made in Baltimore. "We promise it won't happen again," Massey was told. "If you are assessed again, just ignore it."

That's the experience of one little taxpayer who had no money to hire lawyers.

Echoes of Teapot Dome

On the other hand, here is the experience of a man who had the money to hire lawyers and to live in luxury abroad — one Henry K. Blackmer, multi-millionaire oilman who fled to France to escape being questioned in the Teapot Dome scandal.

Some of the others who remained in the United States went to jail for their connection with Teapot Dome and the Continental Trading Company. Albert Fall, secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet, served his sentence. Harry Sinclair served time for refusing to answer the questions of the Senate committee. But Blackmer ducked for France, later was indicted on six counts for perjury and tax evasion to the tune of about $2,000,000.

Blackmer, then president of the Midwest Refining Co., together with Sinclair and Robert Stewart of Standard Oil, formed the Continental Trading company which purchased about 7,000,000 barrels of oil for $1.50 barrel and then sold it to their own companies for $1.75. Sinclair used $230,000 of the profits from this deal to bribe Secretary Fall. Another $180,000 of profits went to the Republican national committee in the form of Liberty bonds, and the committee tried to get high-ranking Republicans to exchange the bonds for cash. Andrew Mellon was sent $50,000 of the bonds, but sent them back, accompanied by a gift of $50,000 in cash.

Blackmer's share of the boodle was found in the form of $750,000 in Liberty bonds in a New York strongbox after he had fled to France.

The government made various efforts to bring Blackmer home, but the French government refused to extradite him and he remained there, living in the lap of luxury for 25 years, thumbing his nose at the nation which had made him rich and which he had cheated.

Last summer, Danny Sullivan, former GOP Colorado politician who dug up the income-tax evidence against Blackmer, told friends in Washington:

"Henry Blackmer will never come back to this country while I'm alive."

Tom Walsh's Fight

Sullivan died shortly thereafter, and almost immediately Blackmer's lawyers arranged to bring him back — reportedly with an understanding that he would escape a jail sentence. Now 80 years old, but in excellent spirits and good health, Blackmer flew back on a stratospheric liner.

Blackmer has powerful friends in the USA, among them GOP Senator Millikin of Colorado, who was a partner in the law firm that originally handled Blackmer's affairs. Millikin, despite a difference in politics, is close to ex-Senator Ed Johnson, Colorado Democrat, who recommended the appointment of the U. S. attorney in Denver, Max Bulkeley.

And it was Bulkeley who informed newsmen in Denver that it would be "inhuman" to send Blackmer to jail.

"He has paid his penalty," the U. S. attorney pleaded. "He has made good all the income taxes he evaded and paid heavy penalties and fines. I will not ask that he be sent to jail."

The venerable Senator Tom Walsh of Montana, having spent a good part of his senatorial life unearthing the skullduggery of Henry Blackmer and his cronies, had joined with a Senate committee in denouncing that skullduggery as:

"The ill-gotten gains of a contemptible private thief, the speculations of trusted officers of great industrial houses, pilfering from their own companies, robbing their own stockholders, the share of the boodle coming to one of the freebooters serving as part of the price of the privilege of a member of the President's cabinet."

Fortunately, Tom Walsh was not alive to hear what U. S. Attorney Bulkeley had to say.

Farm Legislation is Too Tied Up by Politics to Make Sense

By Bruce Biossat

Congress has finally reached agreement on what it terms a "compromise" farm bill. It accepts the principle of flexible price supports but puts off the effective date of this new system until at least 1951.

Meantime, supports will be maintained at the same rigid 90 per cent of parity where they have been held for several years.

Parity is a price plan computed to give farmers a fair purchasing power, the theory being that they should get enough for their products to be able to buy the things they need.

A 90 per cent of parity price means that the government guarantees the farmer that figure even if the open market price sags far below such a level.

Keeping this plan in effect can hardly be hailed as a show of good sense and courage on the part of Congress. It is estimated that by July, 1950, the government will have to buy more than $2,000,000,000 worth of farm commodities at the support levels.

The system unquestionably encourages farmers to produce not for the market but for what they can expect to get from the government for their crops. The result is a glut of markets that can be relieved only by government buying. Thus what was designed as a protection for farmers becomes a spur to unrestricted output.

In the face of the serious confusion and inequity already disrupting the farm economy, Congress has responded by postponing decisive action. With the known strength of the farm bloc in mind, who is bold enough to say that the lawmakers will stand by their "compromise" and actually introduce a sliding scale of supports some two years hence?

The evident fact is that Congress has made a political choice. Warned by President Truman that abandonment of rigid supports might cost the Democrats the farm vote in 1950, the party leaders have done their bit to keep the farmers in the bag.

The president's bluntly political approach is no more suitable to the present surplus crop emergency than is the action of Congress. Both have flouted the advice of the leading farm organization, and the Democrats have ignored their own platform pledge to achieve a better solution.

The compromise proposal would institute supports of 80 to 90 per cent in 1951 and thereafter a sliding 70 to 90 per cent on five major crops. Under the formula, supports would be low when production is high and would be raised when output is falling off. A complicated method for determining parity would be relied upon.

Acceptance of the sliding scale principle represents a victory of doubtful proportions for the Senate. It kills the Aiken law which would have put into effect a 60 to 90 per cent scale starting next January.

Still another result is that it may have postponed in definitely any detailed consideration of the controversial Brannan plan. That system called for outright subsidies to farmers on perishable crops, with consumers getting the benefit of real market prices.

Neither Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, its author, nor any other farm expert was able to forecast with any assurance what the plan might cost. The House this year voted down even a trial run on a limited number of crops.

The lesson here would seem to be that our lawmakers would rather stick with a plan whose bad features are at least partly evident than plump for something they fear might turn out much worse. But none of this sounds like a very sensible way to make laws does it?

We Bow to You, Sir!

It is heartening to hear that Gov. Alfred Driscoll of New Jersey, a Republican nominee for re-election, is facing up to the issues boldly.

When we read the headline, "Driscoll Clarifies Stand on Bingo," we promptly dropped plans for a standard blast against politicians for not being statesmen. The governor's daring response took the wind right out of us.

Look at it This Way

Federal spending for the year ending next July 1 is figured to reach about $42,000,000,000. Sums like that always baffle the imagination, so along comes Northwestern National Life Insurance company to help us understand what the total means.

You've seen stacks of $10 bills, in banks if nowhere else. Well, says the company, you'd have to pile $10 bills 240 miles high to get $42,000,000,000.

If you don't care even to think about that, look at it another way. It means spending $80,000 a minute every minute for a whole year.

No matter how you go at it, the thing sounds terribly expensive.

It Takes Two People's Effort To Create a Happy Marriage

"I'm fed up with hearing that marriage is mostly the wife's job," a woman who has been married for 10 years writes me.

"How in the world can you possibly have a happy marriage if only one of the partners is trying to make it a success?" she wants to know.

That's a good point, and one husbands might give a little thought to.

Most advice to wives is based on the idea that it's the wife's job to make a marriage successful, that it's mostly her fault if it fails, and that when it does fail she has more to lose than the husband.

Marriage is a woman's main job. But it should be a man's job, too.

Just because he has a career shouldn't excuse a man from a fifty-fifty responsibility for the happiness of his marriage.

Look at all the working wives today who are proving that they can hold down a paying job and still not neglect their marriages.

Certainly if a woman can handle both jobs successfully men ought to be able to do it, too.

Plastic Surgery Can Perform Wonders if Properly Handled

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

Written for NEA Service

Surgery aimed at repairing physical defects present at birth or scars sustained in war or accidents has developed enormously since the first world war. Many people with deformed noses, protruding ears, or other peculiarities which mar their looks can now be restored to an appearance which, if not beautiful, at least makes them attractive and less conspicuous.

The methods of plastic surgery used to accomplish these results are often complicated, time-consuming, and expensive. It is frequently necessary, for example, to take cartilage from one of the patient's own ribs and use it in reconstructing a nose, an ear, or some other part. The transplantation of such tissues requires the establishment of a new blood supply and takes time. The same thing is true of skin grafting when it is necessary to cover some part of the body which skin removed from some other place.

The DOCTOR ANSWERS BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. QUESTION: Please tell me the cause of arthritis.

ANSWER: I wish I knew. Many people are seeking it, but as yet the cause is not known in most cases. A few cases are caused by unknown germs.

QUESTION: Does multiple sclerosis deform the body in any way? Is there any pain?

ANSWER: The disease does not cause the body deform as a rule but the muscles and nerves may be affected. There is no pain as a direct consequence of the disease.

Training For Committeemen

Discussion On Soils And Land Classification

The first day of training for PMA community committeemen was held Monday, Oct. 31, at the Association office to prepare them for work they will do in the near future when contacting Pettis county farm owners and operators to complete the Farmer's Conservation program, reported Jas. A. Harvey chairman of the Pettis county Production and Marketing Administration.

The discussion taken up Monday was on the characteristics of soils and land classification lead by Harold E. Grogger of the Soil Conservation Service; soil treatment and fertility improvement by John Falloon, Extension Service; and proper land uses (crops) by Ross Fleetwood, Extension Service. A field trip was made in the afternoon to the J. A. DeJarnette farm to observe different types of soil, improvement and land use.

A second day of training will be held Wednesday, November 2, at which time water management problems will be discussed by Marion Clark, Extension Engineer and Chas. Dickerson, Soil Conservation Engineer. A field trip is planned to the farms of Robert Welliver and Henry Alt where a watermanagement system has been set up on each farm.

Third Training Day
The third day of training will be held Thursday, November 3, when the subject of forestry-utilization, care and management will be discussed by L. E. McCormick, Extension Forester. The balance of the day will be spent in instructing the committeemen in the completion of assignments: Farmer's Conservation Program, 1950 Farm Plans, and 1949 crop history. These instructions will be given by the county PMA committee and Farmer Fieldman, Oscar F. Fix. A summarization of the training and discussions will be made by E. W. Raymond, Program Officer of the ACP Branch from Washington, D. C.

The primary purposes of this experimental Farmer's Conservation Program to be administered in Pettis county in 1950—the only county in Missouri in which it is to be in effect—is to encourage farmers and interest them in establishing and following conservation systems of farming—systems which will result in the conservation and improvement of soil and other resources of our farms; and to obtain data which will provide a basis for better administration of the Agricultural Conservation Program.

The cooperation of all Pettis county farmers is solicited by the county PMA committee to aid the committeeman when he calls to work out the farmer's own Conservation Program for his farm, said Harvey.

Cannibalism In Poultry Flocks

During the '49-'50 season farmers seem likely to have more feed to draw from than ever before.

After allowing for more chickens and hogs to feed, economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture expect the supply per animal to still top last year's record.

With another bumper corn crop in prospect and a record carry-over of corn practically assured, the economists estimate the corn supply may reach over 4 billion bushels for the first time in history.

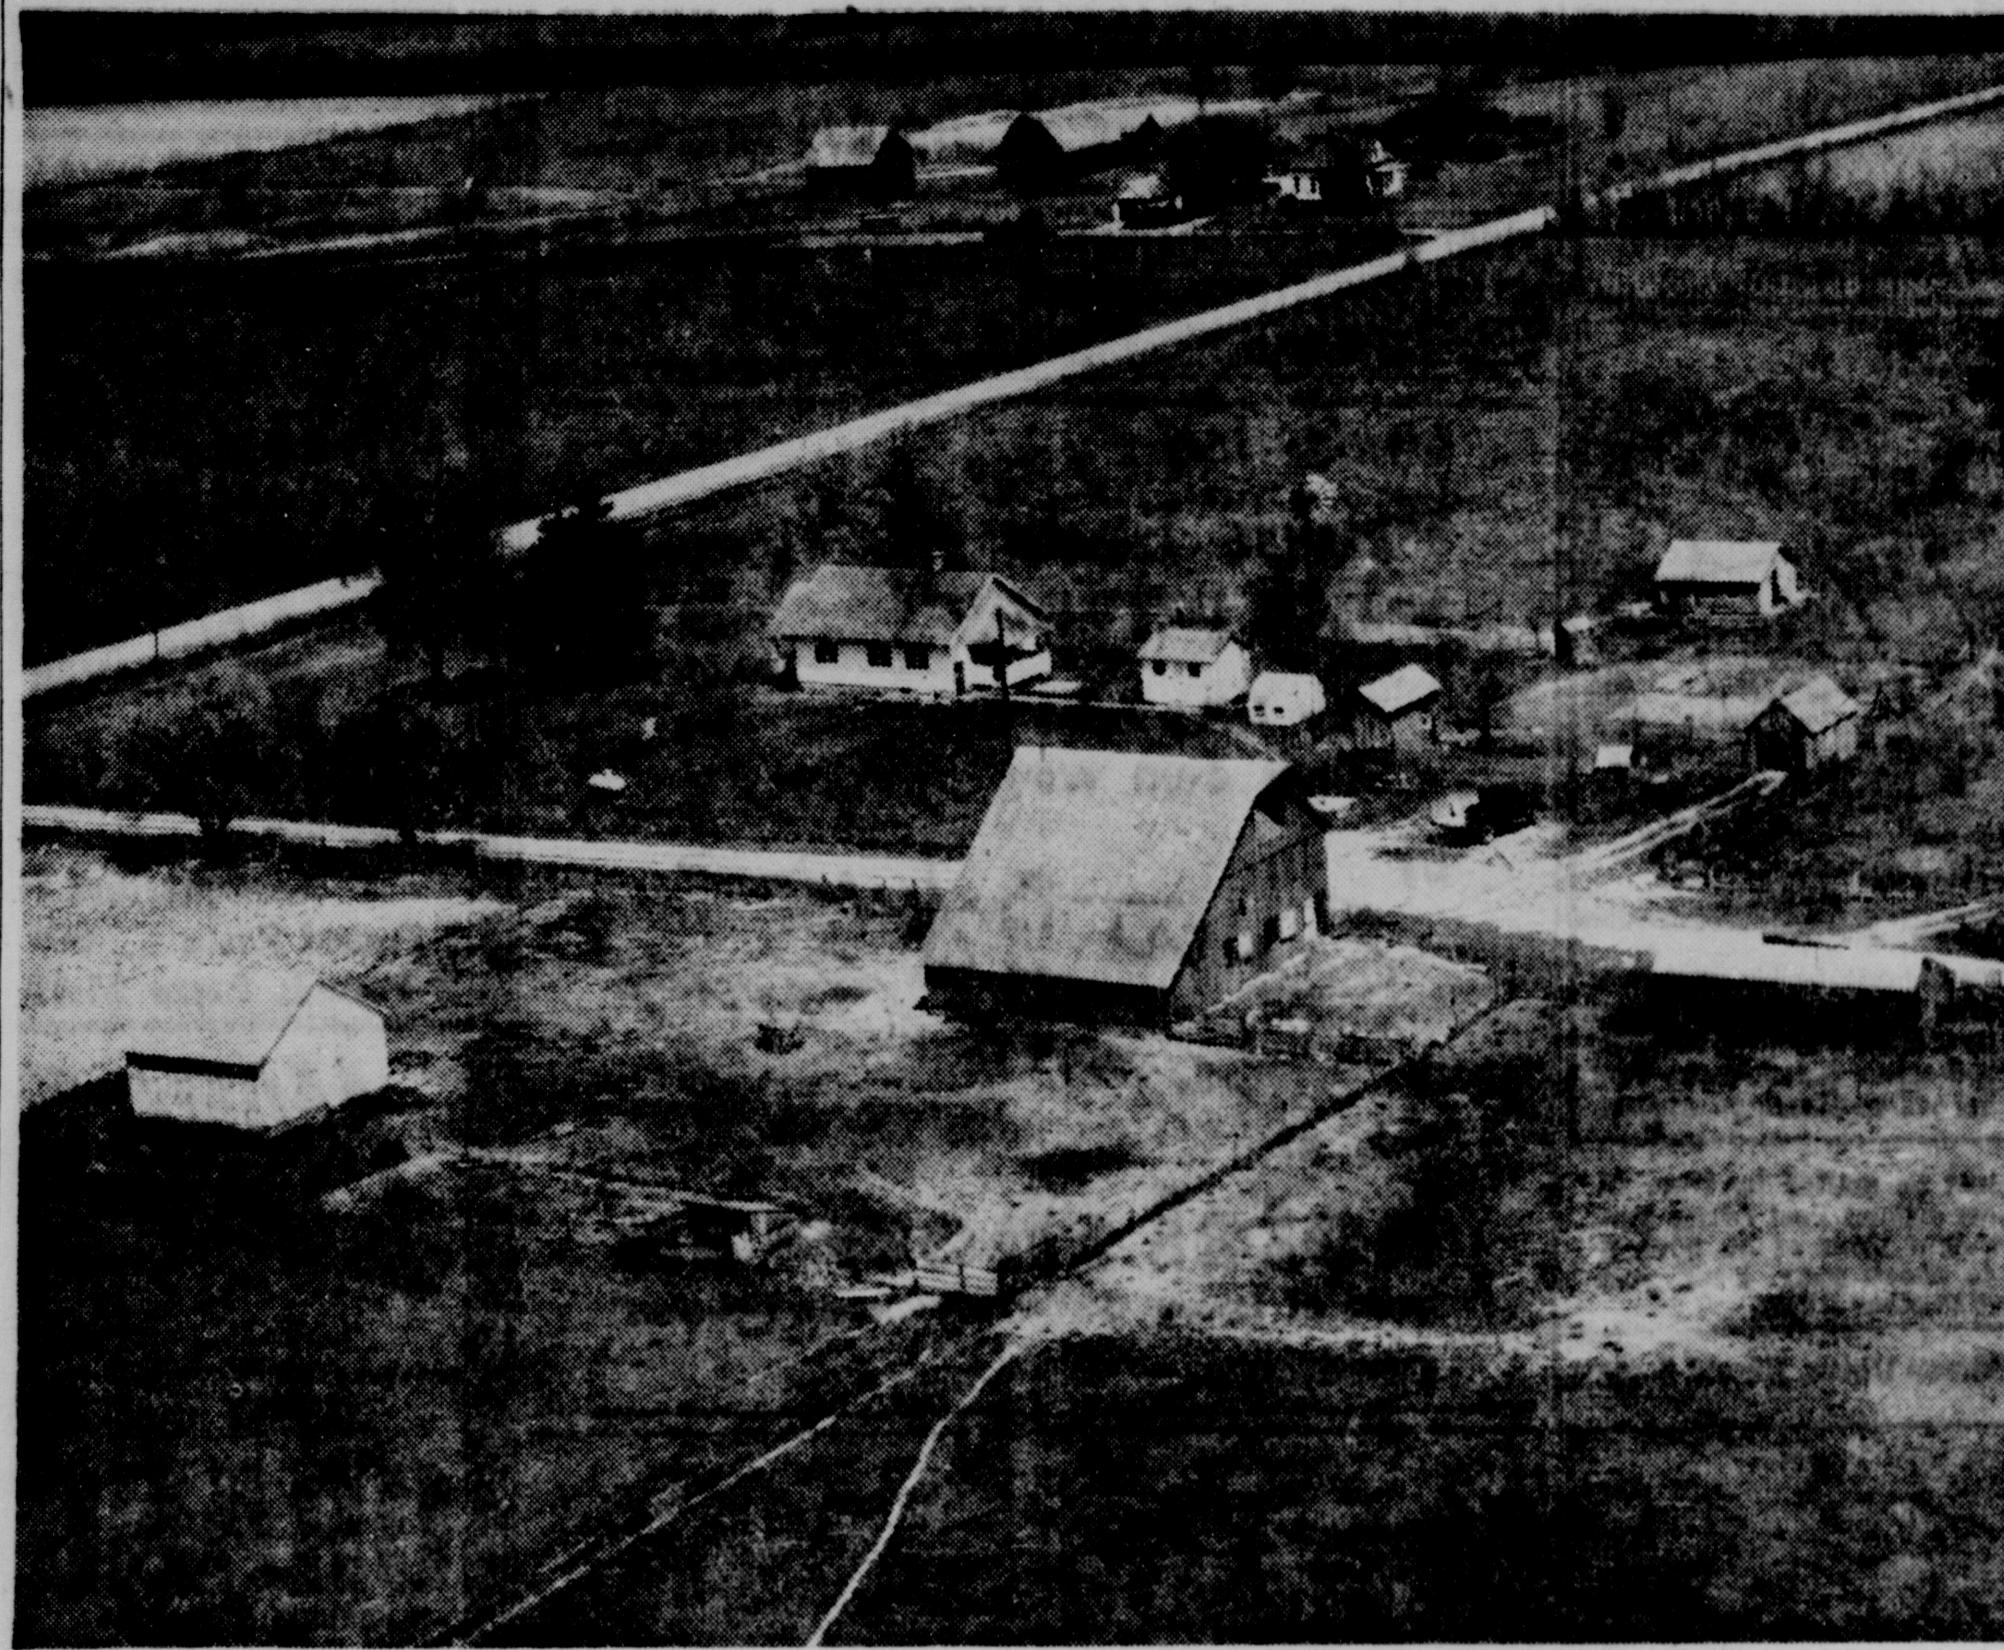

They see another large oat supply, about a fourth more than before the war; about average supplies of barley; and about the same feed of wheat as last year.

Although supplies of oilseed cake and meal may not come up to last year's total, the supplies of byproduct feeds will prove large. And the total supply of all protein feeds will amount to the largest on record.

The total hay supply seems a little smaller than a year ago and the smallest since before the war. But farmers have fewer hay-eating animals. Those in most parts of the country will have enough hay for all the hayeating animals they have to feed.

Debaking is another method. About one-third of the upper section of the beak is removed. An

Mystery Farm Pictures in Central Missouri---

Whose farm is it?

Occupants of the above farm home may have wondered this spring about a plane buzzing low over their buildings. The picture explains it. The airplane pilot didn't know whose farm it was. The photographer didn't either. The two of them just flew around the Central Missouri area served by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital newspapers and took pictures. They couldn't take pictures of all the farms but they got as many good shots as possible during the light time.

So about once a week here-after, until the pictures run out, the Sedalia Democrat-Capital will print these farm home pictures as a news feature. The newspapers would like to know whose farm homes they are.

The farm picture published Monday October 17 in the Democrat and on Tuesday morning following was claimed by Forrest O. Miller, who for the past four years has been manager of the farm which belongs to J. H. Bagby.

This was the second Bagby farm taken by aerial photographers, who have no information as to ownership merely spotting the farms while in flight and taking pictures of those that impressed them as being well improved.

Located two and one half miles north and east of Green Ridge the farm consists of 136 acres. It is a grade A dairy and also poultry farm.

Its modernization will be more complete at a very near time when electric current is made available and for which wiring has been practically completed.

Was Ferguson Farm

The farm pictured last week was that of W. E. Ferguson, who has been a farmer for the past 34 years.

Ferguson, who has lived on the same farm since 1915, said it consisted of 160 acres, and was located 6 1/2 miles south of LaMonte, and about a mile east of highway 127.

The farmer came to the newsroom, Wednesday morning to claim the picture, at which time, he said he just got through selling ten Angus heifers for a good price.

Ferguson said his farming consists of corn, wheat and oat crops, and raises a few cattle. He now has ten Black Angus in pasture, and is fattening 30 hogs.

Mrs. Ferguson usually raises about 150 White Rock chickens every year. The couple have a grown daughter, Mrs. Al Cramer, who, with her husband are living in the state of California.

Ferguson said his wife called his attention to the airplane which took the aerial view of the farm, and at the time, she thought the plane was going to crash in the meadow.

Mr. Ferguson said his neighbors first called his attention to the farm mystery picture in last week's paper.

Leaders Training Meeting Nov 2

The 4-H Leader Training meeting in Food Preparation will be held in Warrensburg, at the Christian church, November 2. The meeting will be conducted by Miss Flora L. Carl, State Extension Nutritionist. The purpose of this meeting is to give the club project leaders training in presenting the material to the 4-H'ers and also help in judging.

Quite a large number of farmers who obtained loans on their 1948-crop corn repaid their loans and used their corn for feed. These farmers benefited by storing their corn on their farms to have it available to feed when needed. Or, if we should have had a bad corn year—like 1934 or 1938—practically all the corn under loan would have been needed for feed to livestock. A good corn reserve is really the best insurance a corn grower can have against a short crop, and it is the best method the farmer has of protecting his investment and guaranteeing himself and his family a stable income year after year.

If suitable farm storage facilities are not now available on the farm, it must be remembered that the Commodity Credit Corporation also offers a loan to construct the needed storage on farms. A grower can borrow up to 45 cent a bushel of capacity but not to exceed 85 percent of the actual cost of new storage. The loan will bear interest at four percent and is repayable in five equal yearly installments, said Harvey.

Questions

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority

Written for NEA Service

While I believe Canasta is going to be most popular with the masses, I find many of our outstanding card players are also making a study of the game.

One of these is John Crawford, of Philadelphia, who is an expert on all types of card games. I am going to ask Mr. Crawford a question in each of my columns so he can show you the different techniques he uses in the game.

Question: Mr. Crawford, I am playing four-handed Canasta. Will you explain to my readers some important points in partnership play?

Answer: Watch your partner's discards. Then take into consideration your left-hand opponent's discards to your partner. This will tell you what cards your partner does not want, when he refuses to pick them up. Also you can discard the same cards as your partner discards.

"Bob" Pruitt of Sedalia sang a novelty interpretation on "Dinah" on the "Parents Day" program that was presented at Hendricks hall Friday morning at Central Missouri State college in Warrensburg.

The "Parents Day" program is an annual affair attended by the parents of C. M. S. C. students.

The entertainment followed an all day program that started Friday morning with registration and a special convocation. President George Diemer presented a welcoming greeting to the visitors.

The program consisted of several vocal solos, a quartet and a one-act play, "The Giant's Stair" by the C. M. S. C. players.

About thirty or forty parents from Sedalia and surrounding districts attended the various events that included the football game between C. M. S. C. and Kirksville.

my hand and the up-card is an ace, and I need 50 points for my initial meld. I know I can take the pack, but can I count this ace to help me make my initial meld?

Answer: You most certainly can. The up-card can be counted as part of your minimum meld if you wish, but no other card in the discard pile can be used for that purpose. After you have legally melded the up-card and picked up the pack, you can proceed to play cards from the pack onto your melds or make new melds.

Mr. McKenney is unable to answer individual questions from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions on Casasta in his column.

TEXAS BOY IS RESCUED—Three-year-old Bobby Gow (arrow) is being taken from an abandoned well where he was trapped 14 feet below the surface for three hours. The baby was released after workers, using three steam shovels, compressed air hammers and bare hands, dug their way to him. The accident happened while Bobby was playing with his brother and sister in the back yard of their East Austin, Tex., home. Bobby suffered only a "slight skin abrasion." (NEA TELEPHOTO)

FIREMAN HOLDS TRAPPED BABY—District Fire Chief M. R. Miller reaches through a hole cut in an abandoned irrigation well and holds tiny Bobby Gow by the arm. Three-year-old Bobby was trapped in the well, 14 feet below the ground, in the back yard of his East Austin, Texas, home. While Miller held the child, two other workers enlarged the hole with tin-snips. Bobby was wedged in the eight-inch casing for three hours before he was freed. He was not hurt seriously. ## Big Seven Teams Handed Out Surprises

Nebraska Came Close to Providing Upset of Season

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31—(P)—About the only thing constituting a genuine upset in Big Seven Conference football these days would be for some team to defeat Oklahoma.

The mighty Sooners, who have bulldozed their way to six victories this season and a string of sixteen stretching from the first game in 1948, are favored to make it number 17 at the expense of Kansas State Saturday. The game will be at Manhattan, Kas.

While Oklahoma was taking Iowa State 34-7 last Saturday, strange things were going on at other Big Seven bases.

Nebraska, walloped 48-0 by Oklahoma a week ago, came close to knocking off Missouri. The Tigers, a favorite by four touchdowns, could consider themselves lucky in winning 21-20 for a homecoming crowd.

Jayhawks Routed Wildcats

The Kansas Jayhawks, weakest team in the league for the first full month of play, routed a spirited Kansas State team 38-0.

Missouri will seek its third conference victory at the expense of Colorado in Boulder, Saturday. The Tigers will be favored to win rather handily, provided they've learned a lesson from the Nebraska game. Colorado defeated Utah 14-7.

Kansas and Nebraska will meet at Lincoln, Neb., in a game that could easily prove one of the better matches thus far in the season. Nebraska, of course, will have to be prepared to stop the deadly passing of Kansas' lefty Jerry Bogue and Dick Gilman.

Iowa State plays its traditional game with Drake University at Des Moines. The Cyclones played well against Oklahoma but didn't have the manpower to make it close.

Runs Out of Steam

Nebraska lost to Missouri after running out of steam in the fourth period. The Cornhuskers led 20-7 going into the last session and might have pulled one of the big upsets of the season had not there been a "burst" in signals.

Fred Hulse, Missouri end, drove through to block Ronald Clark's fourth-down punt and set up the winning touchdown. Clark was putting from the Nebraska thirty-yard line. Missouri got the ball on the Cornhuskers' fourteen and from that point scored in four plays.

Notre Dame, Army, Sooners Set Scoring Pace on Gridiron

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(P)—It's no longer sufficient to say those gridiron gargantuas—Notre Dame, Army and Oklahoma—won again. The pertinent point is: By how much?

As if jealously watching the scoreboard in their drive for national honors, these three top-ranking elevens are gorging themselves on touchdowns and pushing the modern record by winning it three times.

Army's Black Knights of the Hudson, second to Notre Dame in the current standings, are setting the point production pace among the leaders with a total of 267 in six games, an average of 44½ per Saturday.

Irish Registered 197

The Fighting Irish have registered 197 in five games, an average of 39 plus, while the third-ranked Sooners have 229 in six games, a bit over 38 for each afternoon's sport.

They are not apt to wreck the listed alltime record of 504, established by Army in 1944, and they'll be mighty close at the end of this "point-crazy" campaign.

All three of the Titans won games Saturday by robust margins. Notre Dame crushed Navy 400 at Baltimore. Army overwhelmed Virginia Military, 40-14. Oklahoma smashed Iowa State 34-7.

These were the other developments of the last October weekend:

1. Pennsylvania, ninth ranked nationally, was tumbled from the unbeaten ranks by Pittsburgh, which scored a last minute safety to prevail 22-21.

2. Perfect records were maintained by 11 other major teams—Notre Dame, Army, Oklahoma, California, Cornell, Baylor, Boston U., Virginia, Fordham, Wyoming and College of the Pacific.

3. Bowl hopes rocketed for California, Baylor, Pitt and Boston university.

4. Bowl hopes were shattered for North Carolina, Minnesota and UCLA.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(P)—Query from North Carolina asks: "If the Cincinnati Reds paid $30,000 for left-hander Gerald Blackburn, former Legion star from Indianapolis, what will the majors bid for Billy Joe Davidson?" . . . The questioner goes on to explain that Davidson, a southpaw fastballer from Marion, N. C., struck out 28 of the state championship Gastonia batters in a 14 inning game. . . . But maybe the reason the Reds went so high for Blackburn was that his name sounds something like Blackwell.

Third in the nation is Bob Miller of Emory and Henry (Va.) college with 78 points. Oklahoma's George Thomas, the Big Seven leader, is fourth with 75 points.

Randall Clay of Texas still tops the Southwestern Conference with 61 and the Missouri Valley Conference is Jimmy Nutter of Wichita with 56.

Detroit And Wichita Rule Conference

Aggies Dropped To Fourth Place In MVC Standings

By L. E. Skelley

DES MOINES, Oct. 31—Oklahoma domination of Missouri Valley Conference football affairs may be near the end after a nine-year run.

Either Tulsa or Oklahoma A. and M. has ruled the Valley since the 1939 championship won by Washington University, no longer a conference member.

Now it appears that either Detroit, playing its first season in the conference, or Wichita will take over. The schedule favors Detroit. The Titans have two more league games—St. Louis and Wichita. The latter has to meet St. Louis, Drake and Oklahoma A. and M. before finishing against Detroit November 24.

First Place Tie

Detroit hustled into a first place tie with Wichita by toppling the title defending Aggies 13-7. Wichita rambled into the co-leadership with a 27-21 upset of Tulsa, the first for the Shockers over the Tulsa team.

Wichita won the game on four touchdown passes by Eddie Kriewel. Three were caught by Halfback Jimmy Nutter to send the little fellow in the Valley scoring lead with 56 points in seven games.

Detroit plays Miami (Fla.) in the Orange Bowl Friday night and Wichita goes to St. Louis Saturday.

Other Saturday Games

The Aggies and Tulsa battle at Stillwater, Drake is host to Iowa State and Bradley is at home to Delaware in other Saturday contests.

Drake will be without Tom Biemann, star end who broke a leg in Drake's 13-13 tie with St. Louis last Friday.

St. Louis lost to Duquesne 51-14 and Bradley fell 35-12 before Louisville in last Saturday games.

Sunday Driver

Harry Lawrence, Bucknell coach was showing game pictures to his squad recently when he noted a glaring error. . . . Guard Bob Bucher, who pulled out of the line to lead interference for Jim Ostendarp on an end run, went galloping down the field without touching anybody while Ostendarp was piled up by three tacklers. . . . "What were you doing there, Bucher?" Lawrence yelled.

"Why, Coach," Bucher innocently replied, "I thought if I got through those guys, Jim ought to be able to get through them too."

Engineering Feat

Ike Gilbert, Penn State graduate manager of athletics, figures if he can't boast about his football squad, he can always talk about the soccer team, unbeaten in 12 of the last 24 seasons. . . . So when a friend asked Ike what he was going to do with all the unused space in State's newly-enlarged football stadium, Gilbert, closest to that pair, all appear to have welcome breathers coming up Sunday. The Yankees play host to Buffalo, the Browns take on the Chicago Hornets and the 49ers visit Baltimore.

Of the seven games played in both leagues yesterday, only one was a lopsided affair—that in the NFL which saw the Eagles routing Pittsburgh, 38-7. The Rams edged the Chicago Bears, 27-24.

In the AAC, the Yankees and Browns were hard pressed to maintain their deadlock.

The New Yorkers beat the luckless Baltimore Colts, 21-14.

Cleveland kept pace with the Yankees by beating San Francisco, 30-28.

In other National League games, the New York Giants eked out a 41-38 win over the Chicago Cardinals; Green Bay squeezed out a 16-14 decision over Detroit, and the New York Bulldogs, tied Washington, 14-14.

Top Individual Grid Scorer is Brad Rowland

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(P)—Some of the bigger schools could well use Brad Rowland, halfback for McMurray college of Abilene, Tex., who held a big lead today as top individual scorer of the country's college football teams.

Rowland has rolled up 96 points in seven games, clicking for 16 touchdowns. That gives him a lead of 16 points over Bill Young, who has chalked up 11 TD's and 14 conversions for unbeaten, undefeated Hillsdale, (Mich.), in six starts.

Third in the nation is Bob Miller of Emory and Henry (Va.) college with 78 points. Oklahoma's George Thomas, the Big Seven leader, is fourth with 75 points.

Big Seven Teams Handed Out Surprises

Nebraska Came Close to Providing Upset of Season

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31—(AP)—About the only thing constituting a genuine upset in Big Seven Conference football these days would be for some team to defeat Oklahoma.

The mighty Sooners, who have bulldozed their way to six victories this season and a string of sixteen stretching from the first game in 1948, are favored to make it number 17 at the expense of Kansas State Saturday. The game will be at Manhattan, Kas.

While Oklahoma was taking Iowa State 34-7 last Saturday, strange things were going on at other Big Seven bases.

Nebraska, walloped 48-0 by Oklahoma a week ago, came close to knocking off Missouri. The Tigers, a favorite by four touchdowns, could consider themselves lucky in winning 21-20 for a homecoming crowd.

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(AP)—It's no longer sufficient to say those gridiron gargantuas—Notre Dame, Army and Oklahoma—will win again. The pertinent point is: By how much?

But the possible Pasadena from the Big Ten became a greater puzzle as oft-whipped Purdue rose up to smite seventh-ranked Minnesota, 137, and Michigan, No. 6, tripped Illinois, the conference leader, 13-0.

That put Ohio State and Iowa in the middle of the Rose Bowl picture. Ohio State vanquished Northwestern, 24-7 and Iowa won an intersectional fray from Oregon, 31-31.

Iowa takes on Minnesota Saturday in the game that can buoy or bash its bowl chances. Ohio State is at Pittsburgh, a returning power in the national football scene.

Baylor, a dark horse that just keeps on winning, became a stout bidder for the Cotton Bowl spot by overwhelming Texas Christian 40-14, for its sixth straight victory. The Bears, however, must yet dispose of Southern Methodist and Rice. Rice, No. 5 in the ratings won over Texas Tech 28-0.

PUERTO RICO'S BID FOR TOURISTS—Of striking architecture, this new $6,000,000 hotel in San Juan, P. R., is one of the results of Puerto Rico's five-year, self-financed industrial battle to stabilize its economy. The new hotel, 10 stories high, with 300 guest rooms in a wide range of rates, is part of the island's bid for the Caribbean tourist trade.

A smart house for a narrow lot, this compact plant packs a lot of livability into an economical rectangular space. Plan 4731 by Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y., it covers 1,075 square feet — a figure that can be used for rough estimates under local costs. This house can be built with or without a basement. The cellar stairs space provides room for a heating plant above ground. The plan is flexible with one end of the large living room providing dining space if the dining room in the rear is used for a third bedroom. Alternate doorway to the kitchen is shown. All bedrooms are grouped convenient to the bath and segregated from the living room. There are ten closets. The large living room fireplace uses an inside chimney.

Aussie-Made Horse Operas May Earn Dollars

SYDNEY, Australia — (AP) — Photographed in the Australian out-back cattle country, western-style pictures could earn dollars in the American market. Hollywood director C. S. Stith is in Australia investigating the possibility.

He said: "Cowboy type films could be made in Australia very cheaply on sheep and cattle stations. No costumes would be needed and no special sets. The films could be just made in the outdoors." He added that such films were very popular.

Gadgets to Check Cows' Trouble With The Heat
DAVIS, Calif. — (AP) — Cows, too, have trouble with the heat. University of California scientists are studying the problem. They have constructed two miniature weather stations to find out how hot it gets in corrals in the Imperial valley.

The idea is to find out how much shade and moisture can help cattle under extreme heat. Cattle in the valley feed normally in the morning during hot weather. But when the sun begins to get hot they seek shade until driven out to forage by hunger.

Prof. F. A. Brooks of the College of Agriculture Experiment Station says the new weather recording gadgets weigh less than 100 pounds. They will record air temperatures, relative humidity, air velocity, soil temperature and rate of evaporation.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines estimates zinc-lead deposits in the tri-state district of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma at 66,100,000 tons.

Twenty-eight thousand rifles and machine gun bullets were fired for every man killed in World War I.

Sherman Heads To Capital

Considered as Likely Choice to Succeed Admiral
Louis Denfeld

By Elton C. Fay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(P)—Vice Admiral Forrest P. Sherman headed today for Washington, bolstering speculation that he will be picked to succeed Adm. Louis Denfeld as chief of Naval operations.

The commander of the Sixth Task Force in the Mediterranean has been mentioned prominently for the job from which Denfeld was ousted. He has stayed on the sidelines in the armed services scrap which brought Denfeld's removal.

Sherman left his fleet at Beirut, Lebanon, and boarded a Pan-American airliner for the flight to this country. Officials at London headquarters of U. S. naval forces in the eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean said he had been ordered to return to the capital.

An announcement on Denfeld's successor as well as a decision on whether Denfeld will retire or accept a lesser assignment is expected soon.

Two Possible Developments

The two developments could happen today.

Secretary of the Navy Mathews has indicated that he would submit his nomination for a new chief of naval operations to President Truman and Secretary of Defense Johnson at the earliest possible moment. Johnson was out of the city over the weekend while Mathews milled over the problem.

The only hint of what had been offered Denfeld in a meeting between the admiral and secretary on Friday was contained in Mathews' comment to reporters that the new assignment would "not mean any demotion in rank for Admiral Denfeld." Beyond that, the secretary said nothing about the proposed job.

If Sherman is picked for the post of chief of naval operations, it would mean that he would be jumped over the heads of nine vice admirals senior to him.

But Sherman had a qualification not possessed by any but one of the nine—he is an air officer. With present day emphasis on naval carrier task forces as the keystone of the fleet, this was important. The only other officer senior to Sherman who is a naval aviator is four-star admiral Arthur W. Wadford, commander of the Pacific fleet. And Radford was like Denfeld strongly critical of Pentagon policy and the present operation of the service unification program.

E. R. Stettinius, Jr. Dies at His Sister's Home

Head of Lend-Lease
During War And Formerly Was
Secretary of State

GREENWICH, Conn., Oct. 31.—(P)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., wartime head of Lend-Lease and U. S. Secretary of State when the United Nations came into being, died today at the age of 49.

The white-haired, handsome Stettinius, who at 37 became board chairman of U. S. Steel corporation, was his country's first U. N. delegate. He was named rector of the University of Virginia after leaving the U. N. post in 1946.

Death came at 7:30 a. m. (EST) at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Trippe here. Mrs. Trippe is Stettinius' sister. Her husband is head of Pan-American World Airways.

A rich man's son, Stettinius went into government service and shortly became administrator of the $60,000,000 Lend-Lease program that played a major part in the final defeat of Nazi Germany.

The former cabinet member's secretary said members of the household found Stettinius unconscious in bed this morning. He died soon after a physician arrived at the house.

Stettinius had suffered from a heart condition since last spring, his secretary said, and had been convalescing here.

His wife and her mother, Mrs. W. J. Wallace, were with him when he died.

Stettinius started his industrial career with General Motors, becoming a vice-president in 1931.

He went to U. S. Steel three years later and succeeded Myron C. Taylor as board chairman in 1938. He did not hold the post long. President Roosevelt made him chairman of the War Resources Board the following year and kept him in similar high posts in the fact of charges by some New Dealers that Stettinius was too "big business minded."

Stettinius was 43 when Roosevelt named him under Secretary of State's surprise appointment. He took over the top cabinet post a year later, becoming the second youngest Secretary of State in American history.

Carrying on the work of his predecessor, Cordell Hull, Stettinius was permanent chairman of the Dumbarton Oaks Security conference that gave birth to the United Nations.

Stettinius came here about a month ago from his brother-in-law's home at East Hampton, Long Island, while the Trippe remained there.

His three sons, Edward R., Wallace and Joseph, were immediately notified of their father's death as well as his other sister, Mrs. John R. Marsh.

A secretary, L. F. Wallace, said funeral plans probably would not be completed until late today.

Stettinius went to the Yalta conference with Roosevelt, played a leading role in the San Francisco conference which actually brought the U. N. into being, and headed the U. S. delegation to the Chepultepec conference in Mexico, where a western hemisphere defense system was created.

A hard-driving worker, Stettinius stepped out of his United Nations stepped out of his United Nations.

Last Survivor of Town That Was Accursed is Dead

By Bem Price

OLIVER, Ga., Oct. 31.—(P)—The lone survivor of Jacksonboro—the accursed town that was—dead.

Out of that once damned, now desolate region on Beaver Creek came word today that Richard Bryant, 105-year-old ex-Negro slave, had died Friday night.

He was the only man alive who saw the terrible curse of a little hunchbacked itinerant minister, Lorenzo Dow, come true.

He saw the once bustling town disappear, house by house, store by store until but one house remained—the house specifically spared by Dow.

When Bryant was just three years old, he saw the white residents give up in despair at the freaks of fire, water and wind and move lock, stock and barrel five miles away to found another town, Sylvania.

It was in 1794 that Jacksonboro, half way between Augusta and Savannah, was founded. It flourished as a coach stop and country seat.

Jacksonboro was a rough, tough town near the hill country in a rough, tough time.

Denied Right to Preach

For 36 years the town "ent its boisterous way. Then in 1830 Dow drifted down and called upon its citizens to repent. People laughed. They pelted him with eggs. And they would not let him preach.

The tormented little minister with the burning eyes turned this way and that until a powerful man, Seaborn Goodall, gave him sanctuary in his home.

When the purposeful Dow strode to meet his tormentors again the following day, a mob drove him to the rustic bridge and bade him never return.

Scornfully Dow paused on the steps, removed his shoes and shook the dust of Jacksonboro from his feet.

He turned and swore that God would bring swift vengeance to Jacksonboro, the townsfolk laughed again.

But then, unaccountably, fires broke out, windstorms tore off roofs, the placid creek through the middle of the town became wild and unruly, sweeping away homes in flash floods.

The remaining settlers finally gave up and moved their country seat to Sylvania. Time removed all traces of the town but the Goodall place which still stands.

Here Bryant was born into slavery. He was a young man when Sherman marched through, burning all houses along his route—but the Goodall home.

The night old "Uncle" Richard died, so they say, by the light of a flickering kerosene lamp, there was an awful rustling in the trees and an old hound howled.

When he uttered his voice, there is a multitude of waters in the heavens and he causeth the vapors to ascend from the ends of the earth; he maketh lightnings with rain and bringeth forth the wind out of his treasures. — Jeremiah 10:13.

Vandalism to Bring Trouble

Tonight is Hallowe'en, devoted to merry-making and divination and the biggest attraction set aside in Sedalia is a masquerade parade downtown which begins at 6:30 o'clock. It forms at Third and Osage and starts at 7 p. m. moves on Osage to Main thence to Ohio and on to Ninth street and the high school. Virgil Herrick is parade marshal.

According to police records over Saturday night and Sunday, outside of a few garbage pails, flower pots, etc., missing, vandalism was very light. The worst can be expected tonight and the police are preparing for it. Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors said the department would use 40 extra auxiliaries and 10 cars to circulate around the city in search for vandals.

Sunday night a shot went through a front living room window at the Charles D. Parrish home, 408 West Fourth street. It was either from a BB gun, or slingshot. Such damaging things as this will likely bring trouble to any who might continue such actions.

Big Ovation Given Murray

Promises Pro-Communists be Ousted by CIO

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31.—(P)—CIO President Philip Murray touched off a rousing demonstration at the opening session of the 11th convention today when he promised to "cleanse" the organization of pro-Communists.

"I did not know whether I was talking to a fink (strikebreaker), a commie, or an FBI man."

"If we are going to cleanse this movement, which by the way, we are going to do at this convention—" Murray started to say when the more than 600 delegates broke into noisy cheers.

Murray was unable to finish his sentence.

At least three, and possibly a dozen unions under so-called left-wing leadership are threatened with ouster from the CIO.

Death Halts Wedding Plans

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—(P)—Death has halted the wedding plans of Actress June Haver and her dentist fiancee, Dr. John Duisik.

By next July the Navy expects to have 237 combat vessels in operation as compared with 268 on September 1. The fleet will be reduced by four aircraft carriers and the craft which support them. Most of the reduction will be in the Atlantic fleet.

Essex class carriers (27,000 tons) will be reduced from five to three, smaller carriers of about 14,000 tons will be increased from three to four and the small "jeep" escort carriers will be reduced from seven to four.

The Navy will keep in operation its three big 45,000-ton carriers, the Midway, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Coral Sea. The same is true of the 45,000-ton battleship Missouri.

She is a native of Keytesville, Mo. Her maiden name was Jane Rucker. Her mother, Mrs. Estie Rucker, is a professional pianist. Her father, Roy Rucker, an attorney, is now ill in a Kansas City hospital. Mrs. Hadley attended Washington University in St. Louis and married Hadley in 1931. She is now employed in a secretarial capacity at the Wabash headquarters here.

Barkley is a widower. His wife, whom he married in 1903, died in 1947 in Washington. There were three children, David M. Barkley, Mrs. Max Truitt and Mrs. Douglas MacArthur II, wife of a nephew of the general.

Under questioning by O'Dell, Hadley said he had married his wife 16 years ago, just at the time she was gaining prominence as a pianist and violin teacher. She was his third wife.

Hadley said he had become frenzied over his wife's devotion to music and her lack of interest in him.

"I've gone to doctors and I've talked about it and I've tried to get rid of it," he said. "I thought it was gone. But it broke out today."

Killed in Collision

TROY, Mo., Oct. 31.—(P)—John C. Welles, 42, of Briscoe, Mo., was killed and two persons hurt in the two-car collision six miles north of her Saturday night.

To Carry Wreath Afar in Memory of Soldier Son

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 31.—(P)—With a wreath on his back and his faith in the Lord, a coal miner planned to leave here today afoot on a pilgrimage to Guadalupe, where his sailor son met death seven years ago.

The 54-year-old miner, David Wallen of Woodbine, Ky., began his trek from Corbin, Ky., Monday. He plans to walk to San Francisco, carrying the green-enamelled, aluminum wreath on his back.

How will he cross the Pacific to the Solomon Islands?

"I'll get there if it's the Lord's will," said Wallen. "I am not an educated man. I'm just going by faith. I'm placing my trust in the Lord."

He and Mrs. Wallen have two other sons. One of them, Albert, is in the navy, stationed at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Gave Bullets Instead of Love

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—(P)—He said he wanted some loving. I told him "All right, I'll give you some loving." And I pulled out the gun and shot him."

On the basis of that signed statement to police, blonde Patsy Rogers, 25-year-old switchboard operator, today is booked on suspicion of murder in the Saturday slaying of Furrier Harry Lapides, 71.

Lapides' body, five bullets through the heart, was found yesterday under a pile of fur coats in his Hollywood store. Lapides came here two years ago from South Bend, Ind., where he had been in the fur business 30 years.

Miss Rogers said she had known Lapides about 18 months and that he had been trying to sell her a fur coat. She was arrested about midnight Saturday in a downtown parking lot on suspicion of drunkenness. She broke away from officers at Central police station, was downed by a detective's flying tackle. Her purse fell open and out rolled an automatic.

Defective C. C. Forbes quoted her thusly:

"I guess I just blew my top. When I get mad I do a lot of things."

"He was standing across the table. He wanted me to love him. He looked kind of funny when I shot him."

"He asked me why I did it and then he flopped into a chair. I didn't know he was dead. I sat down and smoked a cigarette."

Lapides' body was discovered by his niece and her husband. Lapides' wife had become alarmed when her husband failed to return home at the usual time.

The former Senator then turned to those present and said chivalrously: "The vice president yields—shall we say—to the senator from Missouri."

Mrs. Hadley, with eyes sparkling, said simply: "The Vice President and I are going to be married on the 18th of November. The plans will be announced later."

Friends then rushed up to congratulate the couple, while photographers' bulbs flashed.

"I certainly deserve to be congratulated," Barkley commented. "I regard myself as greatly honored by the announcement Mrs. Hadley has just made."

About forty persons, who had gathered on the lawn outside, were admitted to the apartment to congratulate the couple, who seemed as shy and gay as a couple of youngsters who had just been told their folks there was going to be a wedding.

Then Uses Hammer To Fatally Wound Her Mother

The Vice President said he would remain in St. Louis until tomorrow when he will leave for Pennsylvania to keep a speaking engagement.

Warehouse Worker Gets Tax
Lien Slapped on His Salary
—Mistakenly

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Last week this column told how various big-shot tax-evaders managed to delay or squirm out of criminal tax fraud prosecution, sometimes because of leniency on the part of politically minded or easy-going U. S. attorneys.

It was pointed out that U. S. attorneys are appointed on the recommendation of senators or congressmen, and sometimes appear to work more for the senators than for the justice department.

In contrast to the smooth sailing enjoyed by some big-shot tax-evaders, here is what happened recently to a little fellow who got into a misunderstanding over his taxes. This taxpayer, Francis J. Massey of 220 Second street, Washington, a displaced government war worker, found a job after the war as a warehouse worker for Lansburgh and Brothers, a Washington department store.

In 1948 treasury agents checked Mr. Massey's tax returns for the war years and found proper returns had been filed and taxes paid. Then suddenly it was discovered that a Frank J. Massey had received $150 in dividends from stock owned in the Washington Gas Light Co., and the treasury promptly assessed Francis J. Massey additional taxes.

Tax Lien on $28 Salary

Actually, Francis J. Massey never owned the stock and never received any dividends. It belonged to his father, now deceased. Edward T. Stafford, secretary of the Washington Gas Light Co., certified that Francis J. Massey never owned the stock and never received the dividends owed to his father, but this made no difference to the U. S. treasury.

It demanded that he pay just the same. Mr. Massey's salary was only $28 a week, and he had a wife and two small children to support. But, under protest, he paid in small dribs of $2 a week up to a total of $18.92. This, however, wasn't fast enough for the treasury and it slapped a tax lien on his salary for the remaining $15.59.

This got him into trouble with his employer who did not want to be suspected of harboring a tax dodger and he was fired.

Thus, unable to get a recommendation from his last employer — except with a tax-dodging record — Massey was unable to find a full-time employment. His youngest child became ill, the family doctor had not been paid for past services and would not come when urgently needed. The child died and was buried in potter's field at government expense.

This burial expense probably about equaled the improper tax assessment of $34.51 wrung from Mr. Massey. So, in the end, the treasury department gained nothing.

Finally the office of deputy collector J. Ellis Bowen apologized for the mistake, which they said was made in Baltimore. "We promise it won't happen again," Massey was told. "If you are assessed again, just ignore it."

That's the experience of one little taxpayer who had no money to hire lawyers.

Echoes of Teapot Dome

On the other hand, here is the experience of a man who had the money to hire lawyers and to live in luxury abroad — one Henry K. Blackmer, multi-millionaire oilman who fled to France to escape being questioned in the Teapot Dome scandal.

Some of the others who remained in the United States went to jail for their connection with Teapot Dome and the Continental Trading Company. Albert Fall, secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet, served his sentence. Harry Sinclair served time for refusing to answer the questions of the Senate committee. But Blackmer ducked for France, later was indicted on six counts for perjury and tax evasion to the tune of about $2,000,000.

Blackmer, then president of the Midwest Refining Co., together with Sinclair and Robert Stewart of Standard Oil, formed the Continental Trading company which purchased about 7,000,000 barrels of oil for $1.50 a barrel and then sold it to their own companies for $1.75. Sinclair used $230,000 of the profits from this deal to bribe Secretary Fall. Another $180,000 of profits went to the Republican national committee in the form of Liberty bonds, and the committee tried to get high-ranking Republicans to exchange the bonds for cash. Andrew Mellon was sent $50,000 of the bonds, but sent them back, accompanied by a gift of $50,000 in cash.

Blackmer's share of the boodle was found in the form of $750,000 in Liberty bonds in a New York strongbox after he had fled to France.

The government made various efforts to bring Blackmer home, but the French government refused to extradite him and he remained there, living in the lap of luxury for 25 years, thumbing his nose at the nation which had made him rich and which he had cheated.

Last summer, Danny Sullivan, former GOP Colorado politician who dug up the income-tax evidence against Blackmer, told friends in Washington:

"Henry Blackmer will never come back to this country while I'm alive."

Tom Walsh's Fight

Sullivan died shortly thereafter, and almost immediately Blackmer's lawyers arranged to bring him back — reportedly with an understanding that he would escape a jail sentence. Now 80 years old, but in excellent spirits and good health, Blackmer flew back on a stratospheric liner.

Blackmer has powerful friends in the USA, among them GOP Senator Millikin of Colorado, who was a partner in the law firm that originally handled Blackmer's affairs. Millikin, despite a difference in politics, is close to ex-Senator Ed Johnson, Colorado Democrat, who recommended the appointment of the U. S. attorney in Denver, Max Bulkeley.

And it was Bulkeley who informed newsmen in Denver that it would be "inhuman" to send Blackmer to jail.

"He has paid his penalty," the U. S. attorney pleaded. "He has made good all the income taxes he evaded and paid heavy penalties and fines. I will not ask that he be sent to jail."

The venerable Senator Tom Walsh of Montana, having spent a good part of his senatorial life unearthing the skullduggery of Henry Blackmer and his cronies, had joined with a Senate committee in denouncing that skullduggery as:

"The ill-gotten gains of a contemptible private steal, the peculations of trusted officers of great industrial houses, pilfering from their own companies, robbing their own stockholders, the share of the boodle coming to one of the freebooters serving as part of the price of the perfidy of a member of the President's cabinet."

Fortunately, Tom Walsh was not alive to hear what U. S. Attorney Bulkeley had to say.

Farm Legislation is Too Tied
Up by Politics to Make Sense

By Bruce Biossat

Congress has finally reached agreement on what it terms a "compromise" farm bill. It accepts the principle of flexible price supports but puts off the effective date of this new system until at least 1951.

Meantime, supports will be maintained at the same rigid 90 per cent of parity where they have been held for several years.

Parity is a price plan computed to give farmers a fair purchasing power, the theory being that they should get enough for their products to be able to buy the things they need.

A 90 per cent of parity price means that the government guarantees the farmer that figure even if the open market price sags far below such a level.

Keeping this plan in effect can hardly be hailed as a show of good sense and courage on the part of Congress. It is estimated that by July, 1950, the government will have to buy more than $2,000,000,000 worth of farm commodities at the support levels.

The system unquestionably encourages farmers to produce not for the market but for what they can expect to get from the government for their crops. The result is a glut of markets that can be relieved only by government buying. Thus what was designed as a protection for farmers becomes a spur to unrestricted output.

In the face of the serious confusion and inequity already disrupting the farm economy, Congress has responded by postponing decisive action. With the known strength of the farm bloc in mind, who is bold enough to say that the lawmakers will stand by their "compromise" and actually introduce a sliding scale of supports some two years hence?

The evident fact is that Congress has made a political choice. Warned by President Truman that abandonment of rigid supports might cost the Democrats the farm vote in 1950, the party leaders have done their bit to keep the farmers in the bag.

The president's bluntly political approach is no more suitable to the present surplus crop emergency than is the action of Congress. Both have flouted the advice of the leading farm organization, and the Democrats have ignored their own platform pledge to achieve a better solution.

The compromise proposal would institute supports of 80 to 90 per cent in 1951 and thereafter a sliding 70 to 90 per cent on five major crops. Under the formula, supports would be low when production is high and would be raised when output is falling off. A complicated method for determining parity would be relied upon.

Acceptance of the sliding scale principle represents a victory of doubtful proportions for the Senate. It kills the Aiken law which would have put into effect a 60 to 90 per cent scale starting next January.

Still another result is that it may have postponed indefinitely any detailed consideration of the controversial Brannan plan. That system called for outright subsidies to farmers on perishable crops, with consumers getting the benefit of real market prices.

Neither Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, its author, nor any other farm expert was able to forecast with any assurance what the plan might cost. The House this year voted down to a trial run on a limited number of crops.

The lesson here would seem to be that our lawmakers would rather stick with a plan whose bad features are at least partly evident than plumb for something they fear might turn out much worse. But none of this sounds like a very sensible way to make laws does it?

We Bow to You, Sir!

It is heartening to hear that Gov. Alfred Driscoll of New Jersey, a Republican nominee for re-election, is facing up to the issues boldly.

When we read the headline, "Driscoll Clarifies Stand on Bingo," we promptly dropped plans for a standard blast against politicians for not being statesmen. The governor's daring response took the wind right out of us.

Look at it This Way

Federal spending for the year ending next July 1 is figured to reach about $42,000,000,000. Sums like that always baffle the imagination, so along comes Northwestern National Life Insurance company to help us understand what the total means.

You've seen stacks of $10 bills, in banks if nowhere else. Well, says the company, you'd have to pile $10 bills 240 miles high to get $42,000,000,000.

If you don't care even to think about that, look at it another way. It means spending $80,000 a minute every minute for a whole year.

No matter how you go at it, the thing sounds terribly expensive.

It Takes Two People's Effort
To Create a Happy Marriage

"I'm fed up with hearing that marriage is mostly the wife's job," a woman who has been married for 10 years writes me.

And if the marriage fails, why should the wife get more than half the blame? After all, she is just one of the two partners. When a partnership fails, then both partners involved in it have failed, haven't they?

That's a good point, and one husbands might give a little thought to.

Most advice to wives is based on the idea that it's the wife's job to make a marriage successful, that it's mostly her fault if it fails, and that when it does fail she has more to lose than the husband.

Marriage is a woman's main job. But it should be a man's main job, too.

Just because he has a career doesn't excuse a man from a fifty-fifty responsibility for the happiness of his marriage.

Look at all the working wives today who are proving that they can hold down a paying job and still neglect their marriages.

Certainly if a woman can handle both jobs successfully men ought to be able to do it too.

America's Two-Ring Circus

The CAMEO

By Virginia Teale

Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

I
PERCHED on the platform of a tall stepladder, Hagar Blair found her eyes level with the long, narrow window near the ceiling of her storeroom. As she gazed outward, her strong, tanned fingers fumbled with a useless pencil, passing the ruptured point idly across the face of the inventory pad propped on her knees.

She had called for extra pencils, and presumed that Stephanie, her young assistant in the Three Wishes Gift Shop, was getting them. "From Timbuktu, probably," she muttered.

Hagar had been pleased at the prospect of helping a struggling young writer, she had pictured consultations, late coffee and comradery, but the girl hadn't entered into the spirit of the thing. She never brought her writings to Hagar for advice or criticism, she was downright secretive about her writings.

"Great graven gods! Are you getting those pencils, Stephanie?"

Stephanie glided in, her walks much swifter than usual, her crystal-blue eyes much wider. Her slender hands with their short, pale nails were clasped tightly in front of her—and she carried no pencils!

Hagar promptly started down the stepladder with jerky movements of her bony, slack-clad legs.

Stephanie had put a finger across her lips: "He's out there," she whispered, "the man Nell O'Neill's always with!"

"Who?"

"That Martin Falter!"

Hagar frowned. "So what? So it's Martin Falter," she whispered back.

"He's been in here before—you've seen him before, Don't tell me you've fallen for that summertime spiel, girl. Falter's not interested in cameos!"

She brushed past Stephanie and went out to confront the visitor. She rammed her fists into her pockets as she advanced to where Falter stood, his head bent over the cabinet containing her collection of cameos.

They faced each other in the manner that had become typical of their encounters—wordless, and with the uncompromising calculation of a pair of unacquainted dogs.

They faced each other in the manner that had become typical of their encounters—wordless, and with the uncompromising calculation of a pair of unacquainted dogs.

Hagar stood, inwardly raging, while Falter's narrowed eyes swept over her figure. Helplessly, she sensed what he was totting up: Thin body, lean chest—made even leaner by her black, pullover jersey—shapeless hips in shapeless black slacks, and the whole composition topped by her uncontrollable gray hair.

"Well, all right!" she burst out. "So I look like an up-ended door knob! What do you want?"

Her eyes fastened disdainfully on the black, curling hair revealed by his open collar. The man was so perdition vain about his virility that he wouldn't even button his clothes against the wind! Grudgingly, her sculptor's eye went over his wide shoulders, flat stomach and slim hips. Not bad for his age—he must be 46 or so.

"I thought it would give you a jolt. Even the great unwashed like me have heard of the extent of your collection. But I still say that you don't own anything to compare with this."

Hagar angrily faced his triumphant smirk: "I still want to know where you got this. Steal it?"

She watched Falter's grin fade while his pale eyes turned the gray metallic color of a dead fish.

"I can forgive that remark," he told her, "because I realize it would be entirely possible for you to steal—if the loot were a rare cameo like this. But, sorry to disappoint you, I came by the pin honestly. For, well, let's say services rendered."

There was a shattering crash as something hit the tile floor. Hagar spun around and saw Stephanie staring down at a few bright-colored fragments that once had been a della Robbia vase. One of the girl's hands was poised in mid-air over the silver box on the cabinet.

Hagar clasped her hands prayerfully and looked up at the ceiling, then turned an exasperated face to Stephanie:

"You realize, my girl, what that cost us?"

Hagar bent miserably to gather the pieces: "I was dusting it—I don't know—it fell," she murmured. "I'll pay for it, Hagar. I'm sorry."

Hagar flapped both hands from the wrists: "Oh, don't look so woebegone! We'll work it out later."

She turned back to Falter: "Now, listen: You probably know how much this cameo is worth. I don't doubt that you had it valued before you came loping in here with it. Also, I suppose you're going to quote me some astronomical price just because I'm a collector."

He shrugged and hopped one knee over the edge of a counter: "You should be grateful that I'm giving you first chance at it. As a matter of fact, my dear Hagar, I'm beginning to wonder if you realize what this little item is. Maybe you don't know its history."

Falter lifted the pin from its box and displayed it in the palm of one hand.

Hagar's chocolate-colored eyes avidly registered each detail: the gentle rose-red glow of the carnelian with the exquisite carving of the weeping woman; the limned gold frame outlining the stone, set with small diamonds and extending at the outer edges into crown-like points which were topped with tiny pearls.

"Well," began Falter, "originally, this pin was designed for Isabella d'Este by an Italian craftsman. Then, it was supposed to have fallen into the possession of Lucrezia Borgia during all that inter-family political and amorous intrigue which was taking place at that time."

Hagar shook her head in impatient denial: "You're giving the wrong spiel. It was taken in the possession of the d'Este family for almost a century. I don't know why people get so almighty fascinated with the Borgias that they have to ring them in on any and every thing that took place in the 15th century. If Lucrezia Borgia actually owned every work of art and jewel that legend gives her, she'd have had to rope off the whole city of Rome to corral the stuff."

Martin Falter eyed her narrowly: "So, you do know something about this pin?"

Installation by Moose Nov. 13

Frank J. Welch, membership director of the Loyal Order of Moose, announced the date of the initiation, institution and installing of officers of the Sedalia Lodge Royal Order of Moose, has been set for Sunday afternoon, November 13, at the lodge rooms, now occupied by the Falcons.

The initiatory work will be conferred by the degree staff and drill team from St. Joseph Lodge No. 315. The installing of the new officers for the local lodge will be conducted by Abe Goldman, Deputy Supreme Governor of Missouri.

The principal speaker will be Arch Skelton of Lexington, who is prominent in Moose circles, and a former prosecuting attorney of Lafayette county.

The permanent home of the Sedalia Lodge will be in the building now occupied by the Falcons club, whose members voted to dissolve the organization.

A buffet supper will be served to the new members, their wives and guests, following the ceremonies. Anyone interested in becoming a charter member may report at the hall that afternoon. Mr. Welch said there were approximately one million members in Moose organizations, with over 1,800 lodges located in the United States.

tions post in 1946 partly because of failing health. There was widespread speculation at the time that he also felt he had become a figurehead rather than a policy-maker.

His own version, however, was that he felt his work in starting the world organization was finished. President Truman, in accepting Stettinius' resignation, praised his work and said he accepted "without question" his reason for quitting.

Stettinius carried a big business attitude of briskness into his government service and added to it an informality that sometimes startled his State Department associates.

He was a great man for getting on first-name terms with people.

He was "Ed" to hundreds who came in contact with him.

Stettinius was born in Chicago on Oct. 22, 1900. His father, who founded the family fortune, was a purchasing agent for the J. P. Morgan banking firm during World War I.

Training For Committeemen

Discussion On Soils And Land Classification

The first day of training for PMA community committeemen was held Monday, Oct. 31, at the Association office to prepare them for work they will do in the near future when contacting Pettis county farm owners and operators to complete the Farmer's Conservation program, reported Jas. A. Harvey chairman of the Pettis county Production and Marketing Administration.

The discussion taken up Monday was on the characteristics of soils and land classification lead by Harold E. Grogger of the Soil Conservation Service; soil treatment and fertility improvement by John Falloon, Extension Service; and proper land uses (crops) by Ross Fleetwood, Extension Service. A field trip was made in the afternoon to the J. A. DeJarnette farm to observe different types of soil, improvement and land use.

A second day of training will be held Wednesday, November 2, at which time water management problems will be discussed by Marion Clark, Extension Engineer and Chas. Dickerson, Soil Conservation Engineer. A field trip is planned to the farms of Robert Welliver and Henry Alt where a watermanagement system has been set up on each farm.

Third Training Day

The third day of training will be held Thursday, November 3, when the subject of forestry-utilization, care and management will be discussed by L. E. McCormick, Extension Forester. The balance of the day will be spent in instructing the committeemen in the completion of assignments: Farmer's Conservation Program, 1950 Farm Plans, and 1949 crop history. These instructions will be given by the county PMA committee and Farmer Fieldman, Oscar F. Fix. A summarization of the training and discussions will be made by E. W. Raymond, Program Officer of the ACP Branch from Washington, D. C.

The primary purposes of this experimental Farmer's Conservation Program to be administered in Pettis county in 1950—the only county in Missouri in which it is to be in effect—is to encourage farmers and interest them in establishing and following conservation systems of farming—systems which will result in the conservation and improvement of soil and other resources of our farms; and to obtain data which will provide a basis for better administration of the Agricultural Conservation Program.

The cooperation of all Pettis county farmers is solicited by the county PMA committee to aid the committee when he calls to work out the farmer's own Conservation Program for his farm, said Harvey.

Cannibalism In Poultry Flocks

During the '49-'50 season farmers seem likely to have more feed to draw from than ever before.

After allowing for more chickens and hogs to feed, economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture expect the supply per animal to still top last year's record.

With another bumper corn crop in prospect and a record carry-over of corn practically assured, the economists estimate the corn supply may reach over 4 billion bushels for the first time in history.

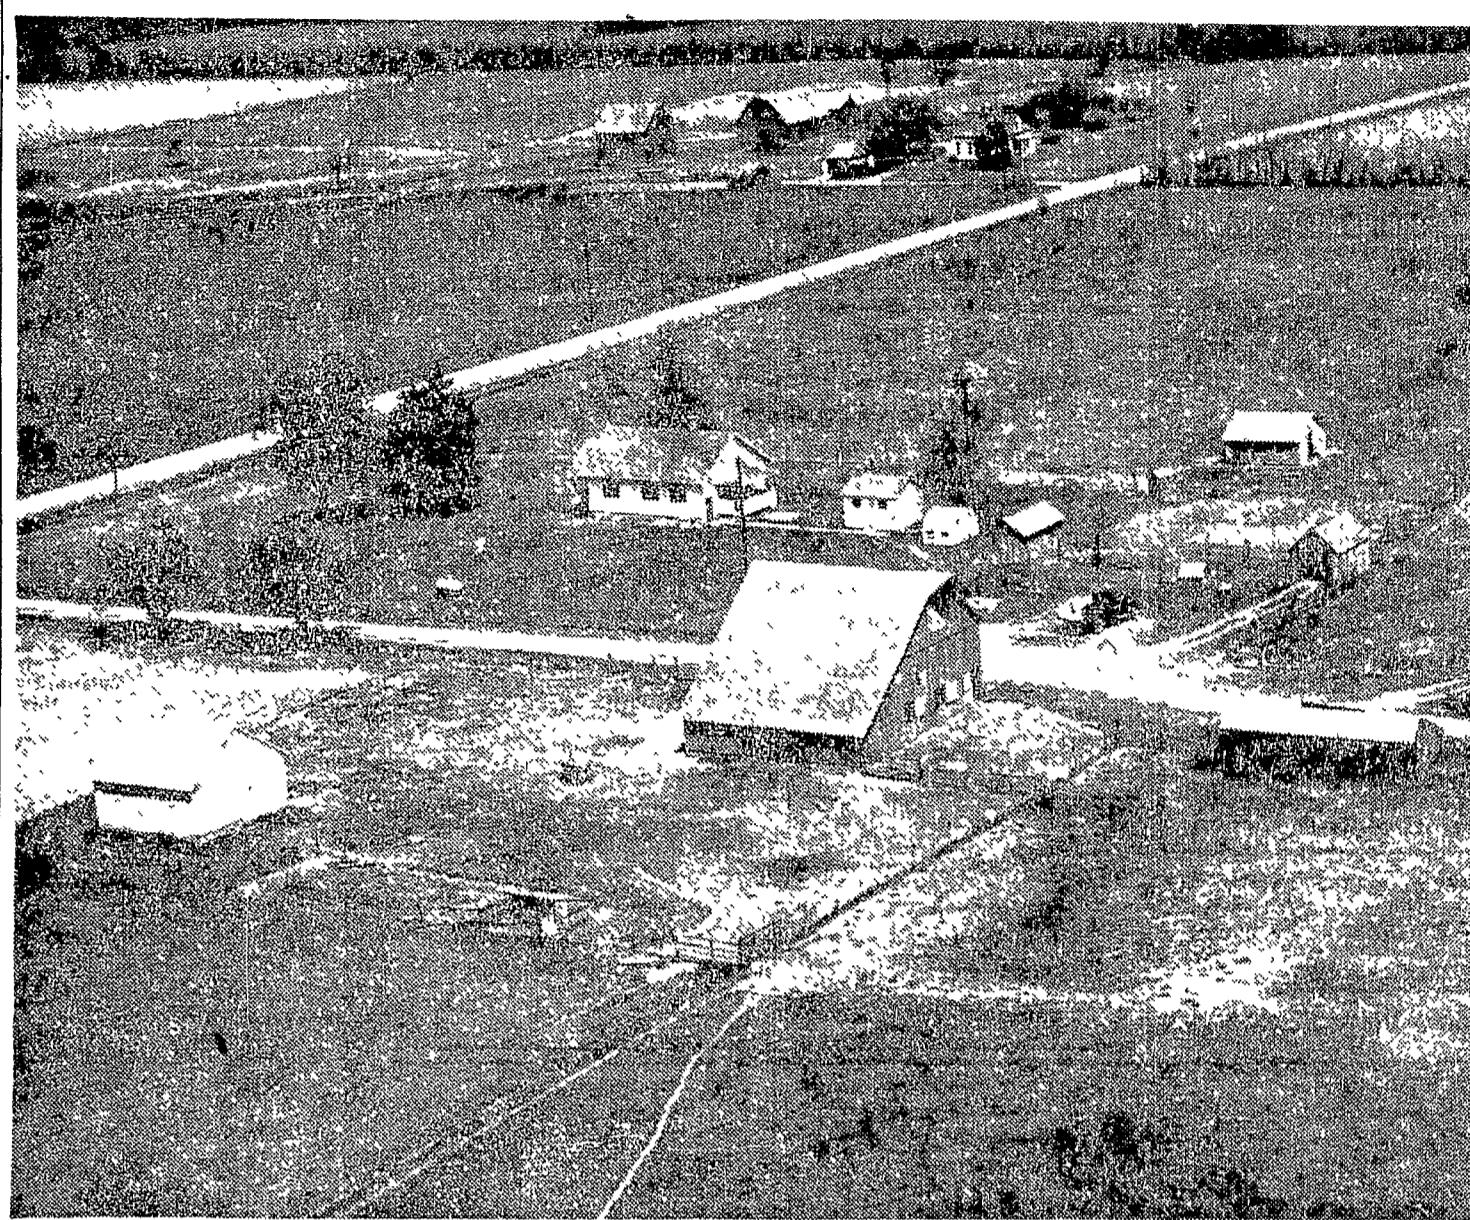

They see another large oat supply, about a fourth more than before the war; about average supplies of barley; and about the same feeding of wheat as last year.

Although supplies of oilseed cake and meal may not come up to last year's total, the supplies of byproduct feeds will prove large. And the total supply of all protein feeds will amount to the largest on record.

The total hay supply seems a little smaller than a year ago and the smallest since before the war. But farmers have fewer hay-eating animals. Those in most parts of the country will have enough hay for all the hayeating animals they have to feed.

Debeaking is another method. About one-third of the upper section of the beak is removed. An

Mystery Farm Pictures in Central Missouri---

Whose farm is it?

Occupants of the above farm home may have wondered this spring about a plane buzzing low over their buildings. The picture explains it. The airplane pilot didn't know whose farm it was. The photographer didn't either. The two of them just flew around the Central Missouri area served by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital newspapers and took pictures. They couldn't take pictures of all the farms but they got as many good shots as possible during the light time.

So about once a week hereafter, until the pictures run out, the Sedalia Democrat-Capital will print these farm home pictures as a news feature. The newspapers would like to know whose farm homes they are.

The farm picture published Monday October 17 in the Democrat and on Tuesday morning following was claimed by Forrest O. Miller, who for the past four years has been manager of the farm which belongs to J. H. Bagby.

This was the second Bagby farm pictured by aerial photographers, who have no information as to ownership merely spotting the farms while in flight and taking pictures of those that impressed them as being well improved.

Located two and one half miles north and east of Green Ridge the farm consists of 136 acres. It is a grade A dairy and also poultry farm.

It's modernization will be more complete at a very near time when electric current is made available and for which wiring has been practically completed.

Was Ferguson Farm

The farm pictured last week was that of W. E. Ferguson, who has been a farmer for the past 34 years.

Ferguson, who has lived on the same farm since 1915, said it consisted of 160 acres, and was located 6 1/2 miles south of LaMonte, and about a mile east of highway 127.

The farmer came to the newsroom, Wednesday morning to claim the picture, at which time, he said he just got through selling ten Angus heifers for a good price.

Ferguson said his farming consists of corn, wheat and oat crops, and raises few cattle. He now has ten Black Angus in pasture, and is fattening 30 hogs.

Mrs. Ferguson usually raises about 150 White Rock chickens every year. The couple have a grown daughter, Mrs. Al Cramer, who, with her husband are living in the state of California.

Ferguson said his wife called his attention to the airplane which took the aerial view of the farm, and at the time, she thought the plane was going to crash in the meadow.

Mr. Ferguson said his neighbors first called his attention to the farm mystery picture in last week's paper.

Price Support On Corn Crop

Loans Available From Harvest On To May 31, 1950

Pettis county has another large corn crop to handle this fall and Jas. A. Harvey, chairman of the local PMA association, reminds corn producers of the price support available to them through the Commodity Credit Corporation loan at the county rate of $1.27 per bushel on No. 3 or better yellow corn.

The 1948-crop corn placed under loan last winter has given farmers and the county committee a lot of experience they had not previously had and with this experience we hope to do a better job of handling the 1949-crop loan corn, stated Harvey.

Loans on 1949 corn are available from time of harvest through May 31, 1950 and will mature on July 31, 1950. The maturity date has been advanced one month as compared to the 1948 maturity date, therefore if the corn is to be delivered in settlement of the loan it can be moved earlier to avoid conflict with the 1950 crop harvest and will also decrease the amount of moth damage. Most of the moth damage to our 1948 corn was done this year during August and September.

Quite a large number of farmers who obtained loans on their 1948-crop corn repaid their loans and used their corn for feed. These farmers benefited by storing their corn on their farms to have it available to feed when needed. Or, if we should have had a bad corn year—like 1934 or 1936—practically all the corn under loan would have been needed for feed to livestock. A good corn reserve is really the best insurance a corn grower can have against a short crop, and it is the best method the farmer has of protecting his investment and guaranteeing himself and his family a stable income year after year.

If suitable farm storage facilities are not now available on the farm, it must be remembered that the Commodity Credit Corporation also offers a loan to construct the needed storage on farms. A grower can borrow up to 45 cent a bushel of capacity but not to exceed 85 percent of the actual cost of new storage. The loan will bear interest at four percent and is repayable in five equal yearly installments, said Harvey.

Additional information concerning the 1949 corn loan and storage facility loans may be obtained at the County PMA Office, 209 1/2 So. Ohio, Sedalia.

The new Minneapolis-Moline TF field cultivator differs from other field cultivators in that its ground working tools are mounted on two rigid frame bars instead of on individual floating gangs. This means better penetration in hard ground and the tools cannot be forced aside by tough weed roots. All-steel construction. Simple, quick-acting power lift never requires attention or lubrication. One of these is John Crawford, of Philadelphia, who is an expert on all types of card games. I am going to ask Mr. Crawford a question in each of my columns so he can show you the different techniques he uses in the game.

Question: Mr. Crawford, I'm playing four-handed Canasta will you explain to my readers some important points in partnership play?

Answer: Watch your partner's discards. Then take into consideration your left-hand opponent's discards to your partner. This will tell you what cards your partner does not want, when he refuses to pick them up. Also you can discard the same cards as your partner discards.

Answer: You most certainly can. The up-card can be counted as part of your minimum meld if you wish, but no other card in the discard pile can be used for that purpose. After you have legally melded the up-card and picked up the pack, you can proceed to play cards from the pack onto your melds or make new melds.

Big Seven Teams Handed Out Surprises

Nebraska Came Close to Providing Upset of Season

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31—(P)—About the only thing constituting a genuine upset in Big Seven Conference football these days would be for some team to defeat Oklahoma.

The mighty Sooners, who have bulldozed their way to six victories this season and a string of sixteen stretching from the first game in 1948, are favored to make it number 17 at the expense of Kansas State Saturday. The game will be at Manhattan, Kas.

While Oklahoma was taking Iowa State 34-7 last Saturday, strange things were going on at other Big Seven bases.

Nebraska, walloped 48-0 by Oklahoma a week ago, came close to knocking off Missouri. The Tigers, a favorite by four touchdowns, could consider themselves lucky in winning 21-20 for a homecoming crowd.

Jayhawks Routed Wildcats

The Kansas Jayhawks, weakest team in the league for the first full month of play, routed a spirited Kansas State team 38-0.

Missouri will seek its third conference victory at the expense of Colorado in Boulder, Saturday. The Tigers will be favored to win rather handily, provided they've learned a lesson from the Nebraska game. Colorado defeated Utah 14-7.

Kansas and Nebraska will meet at Lincoln, Neb., in a game that could easily prove one of the better matches thus far in the season. Nebraska, of course, will have to be prepared to stop the deadly passing of Kansas' lefty Jerry Bogue and Dick Gilman.

Iowa State plays its traditional game with Drake Saturday at Des Moines. The Cyclones played well against Oklahoma but didn't have the manpower to make it close.

Runs Out of Steam

Nebraska lost to Missouri after running out of steam in the fourth period. The Cornhuskers led 20-7 going into the last session and might have pulled one of the big upsets of the season had not there been a "burst" in signals.

Fred Hulse, Missouri end, drove through to black Ronald Clark's fourth-down punt and set up the winning touchdown. Clark was putting from the Nebraska thirty-yard line. Missouri got the ball on the Cornhuskers' fourteen and from that point scored in four plays.

The standings:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.	PF	OP
Oklahoma	3	0	1	0.000	138	33
Missouri	2	0	1	0.000	53	20
Iowa State	3	2	0	.600	64	99
Nebraska	1	2	0	.333	33	75
Colorado	1	2	0	.333	32	52
Kansas State	1	3	0	.250	34	68
Kansas	1	3	0	.250	82	80
All Games	W.	L.	T.	Pct.	PF	OP
Oklahoma	6	0	1	0.667	228	50
Missouri	4	2	0	.667	162	110
Iowa State	4	2	1	.643	148	119
Nebraska	2	4	0	.333	79	131
Colorado	3	3	0	.500	80	108
Kansas State	2	4	0	.333	124	110
Kansas	3	4	0	.429	158	156

Hulse moved in untouched on Clark's punt. There wasn't a blocker in sight on the punter's right side.

Big Seven little bits: George Thomas picked up one touchdown against Ohio State to boost his scoring total to 75 points. Missouri's Johnny Glorioso made two TDs and three conversions and has 59 points, second best in the league. Teammate Dick Braznell completed two passes to Braznell and Braznell connected with Glorioso for two.

Sooners Are Hard To Stop

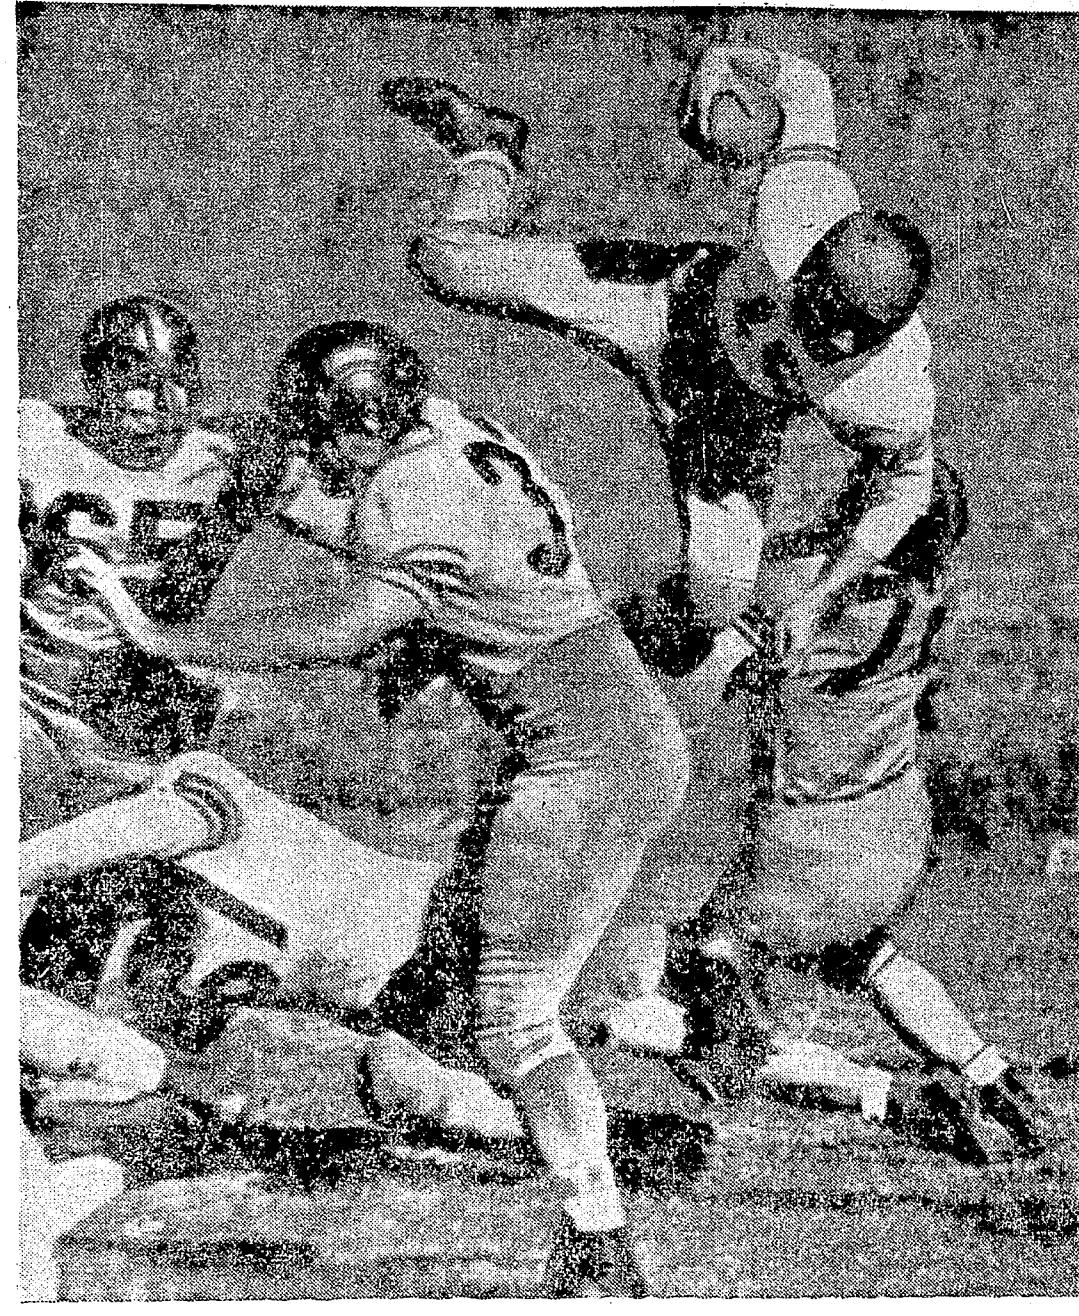

Missouri Coach Don Faurot commented that "no team in the country can beat Oklahoma if the Sooners have a good day. x x x

Not even Notre Dame," Missouri plays Oklahoma at Columbia November 12... Nebraska center Tom Novak played a great game. Missouri had a full head of steam for not more than ten minutes of the contest.

Colorado's Hodel, an 18-year old, is proving himself one of the most promising backs in the conference. He's carried the Colorado offensive load since the injury of Harry Narcisian three weeks ago. Iowa State's quarterback Bill Weeks continues as the league's top passer. He was the head man in a Cyclone passing attack that clicked for 18 completions and 281 yards. Weeks now has a total of 1,108 yards passing. That tops the season total of 945 by Kansas' Dick Gilman last year.

Nebraskan Is Air borne

Ronald Clark, Nebraska back, is airborne but headed for a spill as Joe Woodson (rear right), of Missouri, catches him by one foot in this first quarter action of the Missouri-Nebraska game at Columbia. Despite his aerial attempt, to elude Missouri tacklers, Clark made only three yards on the play. Other Missouri players include Gene Pepper (65), John Kadlec (falling), and Dave Ashley (in foreground). Missouri won 21-20. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Notre Dame, Army, Sooners Set Scoring Pace on Gridiron

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(P)—It's no longer sufficient to say those gridiron goliathas—Notre Dame, Army and Oklahoma—have again. The pertinent point is: By how much?

As if jealously watching the scoreboard in their drive for national honors, these three top-ranking elevens are gorging themselves on touchdowns and pushing the modern record for scoring.

Army's Black Knights of the Hudson, second to Notre Dame in the current standings, are setting the point production pace among the leaders with a total of 267 in six games, an average of 44½ per Saturday.

Irish Registered 197

The Fighting Irish have registered 197 in five games, an average of 39 plus, while the third-ranked Sooners have 229 in six games, a bit over 38 for each afternoon's sport.

They are not apt to wreck the listed all-time record of 504, established by Army in 1944, but they'll be mighty close at the end of this "point-crazy" campaign.

All three of the Titans won games Saturday by robust margins. Notre Dame crushed Navy 400 at Baltimore. Army overwhelmed Virginia Military, 40-14. Oklahoma smashed Iowa State 34-7.

These were the other developments of the last October weekend:

1. Pennsylvania, ninth ranked nationally, was tumbled from the unbeaten ranks by Pittsburgh, which scored a last minute safety to prevail 22-21.

2. Perfect records were maintained by 11 other major teams—Notre Dame, Army, Oklahoma, California, Cornell, Baylor, Boston U., Virginia, Fordham, Wyoming and College of the Pacific.

3. Bowl hopes rocketed for California, Baylor, Pitt and Boston University.

4. Bowl hopes were shattered for North Carolina, Minnesota and UCLA.

Bears Ride High

California's Golden Bears just about clinched the Pacific Coast championship and the Rose Bowl.

5. Penn State's once-beaten and once-tied Vols, another oldtime gridiron great making a postwar comeback, throttled North Carolina's great Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice and handed the Tar Heels their second straight setback, 35-6.

Cornell's eighth-ranked Big Red won its sixth in a row, rolling over Columbia, 54-0. Harry Arganis fired four touchdown passes as Boston U. lashed Scranton, 46-6. Wyoming sailed past Brigham Young, 45-0.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(P)—Query from North Carolina asks:

"If the Cincinnati Reds paid $30,000 for left-hander Gerald Blackburn, former Legion star from Kannapolis, what will the majors bid for Billy Joe Davidson?" . . . The questioner goes on to explain that Davidson, a southpaw fastballer from Marion, N. C., struck out 28 of the state championship Gastonia batters in 14 inning game. . . . But maybe the reason the Reds went so high for Blackburn was that his name sounds something like Blackwell.

Boucher has made good 16 of 18 attempts in six games this season and two of Tulsa's three victories have been decided by Boucher's talented toe. Boucher, 200 pounds and 6 feet 2 inches tall, is from Augusta, Kas. The secret of Boucher's extra-point kicking success is said to be the fact that he keeps his eyes down, "spot kicking" much as a bowler

Detroit And Wichita Rule Conference

Aggies Dropped To Fourth Place In MVC Standings

By L. E. Skelley

DES MOINES, Oct. 31—Oklahoma domination of Missouri Valley Conference football affairs may be near the end after a nine-year run.

Either Tulsa or Oklahoma A. and M. has ruled the Valley since the 1939 championship won by Washington University, no longer a conference member.

Now it appears that either Detroit, playing its first season in the conference, or Wichita will take over. The schedule favors Detroit. The Titans have two more league games—St. Louis and Wichita. The latter has to meet St. Louis, Drake and Oklahoma A. and M. before finishing against Detroit November 24.

First Place Tie

Detroit hustled into a first place tie with Wichita by toppling the title defending Aggies 13-7. Wichita rambled into the co-leadership with a 27-21 upset of Tulsa, the first for the Shockers over the Tulsa team.

Wichita won the game on four touchdown passes by Eddie Kriewel. Three were caught by Halfback Jimmy Nutter to send the little fellow in the Valley scoring lead with 56 points in seven games.

Detroit plays Miami (Fla.) in the Orange Bowl Friday night and Wichita goes to St. Louis Saturday.

Other Saturday Games

The Aggies and Tulsa battle at Stillwater, Drake is host to Iowa State and Bradley is at home to Delaware in other Saturday contests.

Detroit will be without Tom Biemann, star end who broke a leg in Drake's 13-1 tie with St. Mary's last Friday.

St. Louis lost to Duquesne 51-14 and Bradley fell 35-12 before Louisville in last Saturday games.

Big Seven Teams Handled Out Surprises

Nebraska Came Close to Providing Upset of Season

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31.—(P)—About the only thing constituting a genuine upset in Big Seven Conference football these days would be for some team to defeat Oklahoma.

The mighty Sooners, who have bulldozed their way to six victories this season and a string of sixteen stretching from the first game in 1948, are favored to make it number 17 at the expense of Kansas State Saturday. The game will be at Manhattan, Kas.

While Oklahoma was taking Iowa State 34-7 last Saturday, strange things were going on at other Big Seven bases.

Nebraska, walloped 48-0 by Oklahoma a week ago, came close to knocking off Missouri. The Tigers, a favorite by four touchdowns, could consider themselves lucky in winning 21-20 for a homecoming crowd.

Jayhawks Routed Wildcats

The Kansas Jayhawks, weakest team in the league for the first full month of play, routed a spirited Kansas State team 38-0.

Missouri will seek its third conference victory at the expense of Colorado in Boulder, Saturday. The Tigers will be favored to win rather handily, provided they've learned a lesson from the Nebraska game. Colorado defeated Utah 14-7.

Kansas and Nebraska will meet at Lincoln, Neb., in a game that could easily prove one of the better matches thus far in the season. Nebraska, of course, will have to be prepared to stop the deadly passing of Kansas' lefty Jerry Bogue and Dick Gilman.

Iowa State plays its traditional game with Drake University at Des Moines. The Cyclones played well against Oklahoma but didn't have the manpower to make it close.

Runs Out of Steam

Nebraska lost to Missouri after running out of steam in the fourth period. The Cornhuskers led 20-7 going into the last session and might have pulled one of the big upsets of the season had not there been a "bust" in signals.

Fred Hulse, Missouri end, drove through to black Ronald Clark's fourth-down punt and set up the winning touchdown. Clark was putting from the Nebraska thirty-yard line. Missouri got the ball on the Cornhuskers' fourteen and from that point scored in four plays.

Hulse moved in untouched on Clark's punt. There wasn't a blocker in sight on the punter's right side.

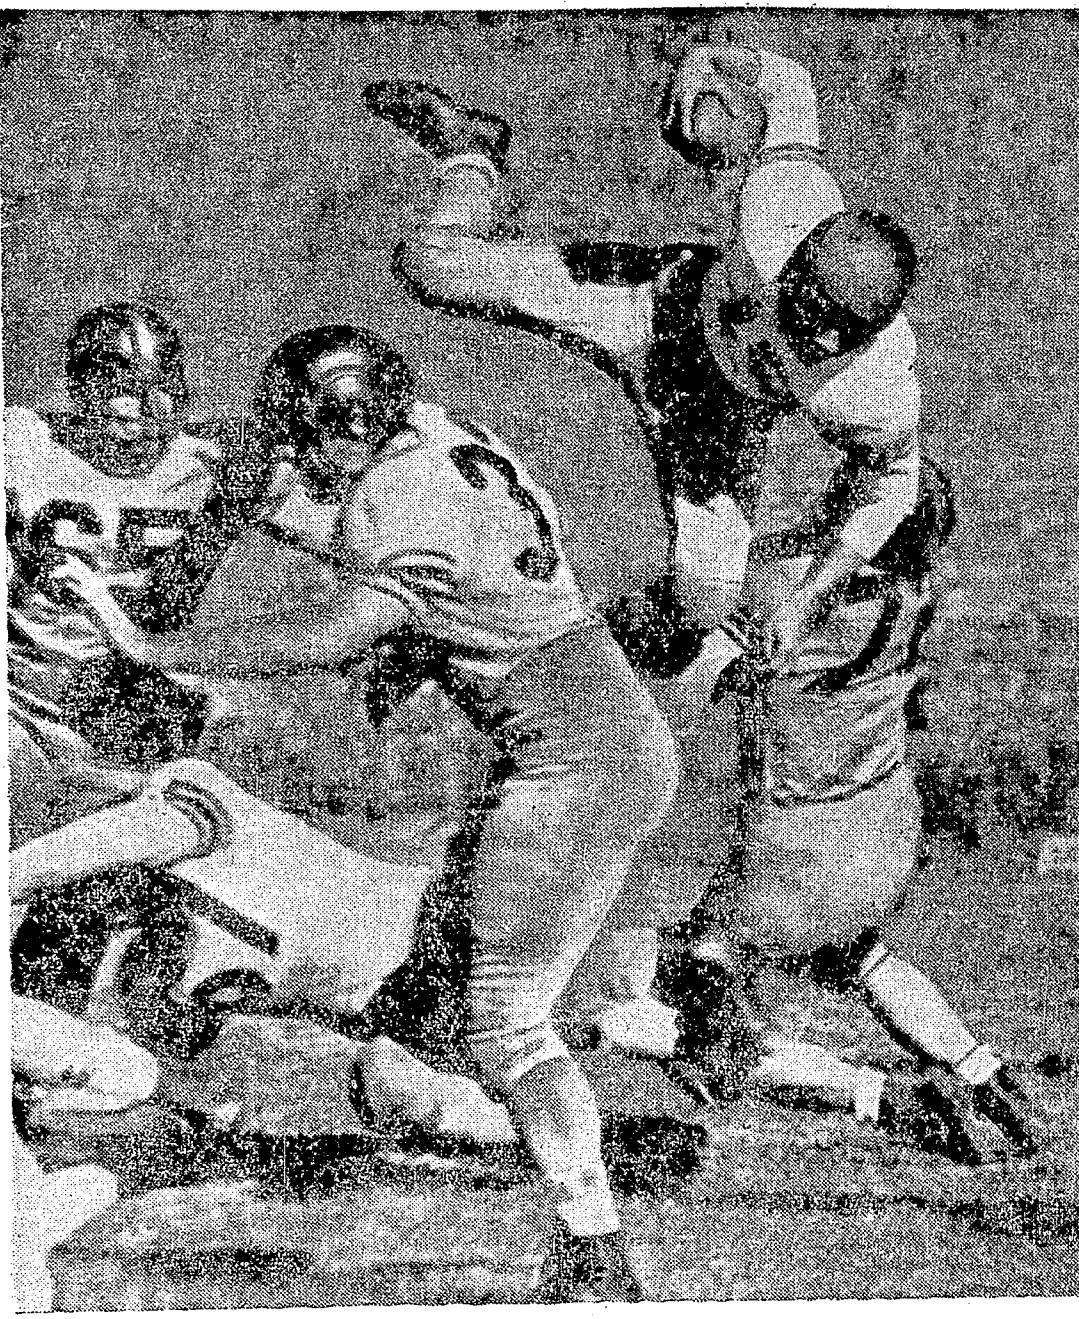

Big Seven little bits: George Thomas picked up one touchdown against Ohio State to boost his scoring total to 75 points. Missouri's Johnny Glorioso made two TDS and three conversions and has 59 points, second best in the league. Teammate Dick Braznell is third with 42... Glorioso completed two passes to Braznell and Braznell connected with Glorioso for two.

Sooners Are Hard To Stop

Missouri Coach Don Faurot commented that "no team in the country can beat Oklahoma if the Sooners have a good day. X x X. Not even Notre Dame." Missouri plays Oklahoma at Columbia November 12... Nebraska center Tom Novak played a great game. Missouri had a full head of steam for not more than ten minutes of the contest.

Colorado's Hodel, an 18-year-old, is proving himself one of the most promising backs in the conference. He's carried the Colorado offensive load since the injury of Harry Narcisian three weeks ago. Iowa State's quarterback Bill Weeks continues as the

Ronald Clark, Nebraska back, is airborne but headed for a spill as Joe Woodson (rear right), of Missouri, catches him by one foot in this first quarter action of the Missouri-Nebraska game at Columbia. Despite his aerial attempt, to elude Missouri tacklers, Clark made only three yards on the play. ## Notre Dame, Army, Sooners Set Scoring Pace on Gridiron

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(P)—It's now longer sufficient to say those gridiron gargantuas—Notre Dame, Army and Oklahoma—won again. The pertinent point is: By how much?

As if jealously watching the scoreboard in their drive for national honors, these three top-ranking elevens are gorging themselves on touchdowns and pushing the modern record for scoring.

Army's Black Knights of the Hudson, second to Notre Dame in the current standings, are setting the point production pace among the leaders with a total of 267 in six games, an average of 44 1/2 per Saturday.

Irish Registered 197

The Fighting Irish have registered 197 in five games, an average of 39 plus, while the third-ranked Sooners have 229 in six games, a bit over 38 for each afternoon's sport.

They are not apt to wreck the listed all-time record of 504, established by Army in 1944, but they'll be mighty close at the end of this "point-crazy" campaign.

All three of the Titans won games Saturday by robust margins. Notre Dame crushed Navy 40 at Baltimore. Army overwhelmed Virginia Military, 40-14. Oklahoma smashed Iowa State 28-7.

These were the other developments of the last October week-end:

1. Pennsylvania, ninth ranked nationally, was tumbled from the unbeaten ranks by Pittsburgh, which scored a last minute safety to prevail 22-21.

2. Perfect records were maintained by 11 other major teams—Notre Dame, Army, Oklahoma, Cornell, Baylor, Boston U., Virginia, Fordham, Wyoming and College of the Pacific.

3. Bowl hopes were shattered for North Carolina, Minnesota and UCLA.

GET A LOAD OF THIS—Here is a fish-eye view of one of three huge tuna nets being loaded aboard a plane in San Francisco for shipment to the Fiji Islands. The nets, made in Portugal, weigh 1000 pounds and cost $1500 each. Net value of the cargo, then, is $4500.

Aussie-Made Horse Operas May Earn Dollars

SYDNEY, Australia — (AP) — Photographed in the Australian out-back cattle country, western-style pictures could earn dollars in the American market. Hollywood director C. S. Stith is in Australia investigating the possibility.

He said: "Cowboy type films could be made in Australia very cheaply on sheep and cattle stations. No costumes would be needed and no special sets. The films could be just made in the outdoors." He added that such films were very popular.

COURAGEOUS SCOUT—Scout Don Lee, 18, who has had no legs since he was nine months old, beams with pride as his foster mother pins an Eagle Scout badge on his chest. The Salt Lake City youth, who lost both legs in an accident 17 years ago, completed all the tough physical requirements for the badge, including a 14-mile hike. Don is saving his money for the trip to the next Scout jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa.

Gadgets to Check Cows' Trouble With The Heat

DAVIS, Calif. — (AP) — Cows, too, have trouble with the heat. University of California scientists are studying the problem. They have constructed two miniature weather stations to find out how hot it gets in corrals in the Imperial valley.

The idea is to find out how much shade and moisture can help cattle under extreme heat. Cattle in the valley feed normally in the morning during hot weather. But when the sun begins to get hot they seek shade until driven out to forage by hunger.

Prof. F. A. Brooks of the College of Agriculture Experiment Station says the new weather recording gadgets weigh less than 100 pounds. They will record air temperatures, relative humidity, air velocity, soil temperature and rate of evaporation.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines estimates zinc-lead deposits in the tri-state district of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma at 66,100,000 tons.

Twenty-eight thousand rifle and machine gun bullets were fired for every man killed in World War I.
